

CANNON WALKS OUT ON SENATE GROUP

LONG SESSION HEAVY STRAIN ON CONGRESS

Senators and Representatives Anxious to Leave Washington

HOUSE DELAYS ACTION
Many Bills May Get Through Senate but Won't Be Voted by House

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — (CPA) — Congress is a bundle of nerves. The long siege is telling on the members. As the hot season approaches, senators and representatives are eager to get away. They have been in almost continuous session since the beginning of the Hoover administration. Last summer the farm relief bill and the tariff kept them busy. The end of the tariff is in sight and while there are dozens of important measures whose sponsors are pressing for action, adjournment would come almost overnight if the tariff bill were out of the way.

Many legislative proposals may even get through the senate in a hurry, but they are not likely to be acted upon by the house. The senate, for example, adopted a bill to amend patent law. It probably will not get through the house. The measure, however, will remain on the calendar there and can be acted upon at the December session.

Members of congress are not only tired, but the congressional campaign is beckoning to them. The primaries are causing all sorts of complications, not only because of the large number of three-cornered races, but because all members of the delegation is influenced by the senator who dominates the political organization in his state.

WOULD STEP UP
A number of members of the house are themselves candidates for the senate. Representative Dickinson of Iowa has just won the Republican nomination for the senate over Governor Hammill. Senator Steak, Democratic nominee, profited by the split in the Republican party with a Conservative. Representative Brookhart six years ago. This time Representative Dickinson has the support of Senator Brookhart as well as the

BOY WHO SHOT UNCLE BY ACCIDENT MAY BE FREED

Neillsville — (CP) — Dist. Atty. Victor W. Nehs, today said no action was contemplated against Robert Sherwood, 16, who confessed he accidentally shot and killed his uncle, Osvin Berthold.

Nevertheless, Nehs said, a light charge, possibly fourth degree manslaughter, would be placed against the youth to enable authorities to complete their investigation. Both Sherwood and George Hartwig, 24, a neighbor of the dead man, who was held for investigation, are in jail. Nehs said Hartwig would not be released until some charge was filed against Sherwood.

CAR HITS GROUP OF 60 CHILDREN—DOZEN HURT

Chicago — (CP) — An automobile, out of control, plowed into a group of 60 school children waiting for a street car yesterday, injuring 12. Bernard Robinson, 19-year-old driver of the machine, was arrested.

It Used to Be

The style to store baby's stroller high up in the attic... for sentimental reasons, I suppose. Nowadays when the baby is old enough to walk... the stroller isn't "parked" in the attic for future reference, but sold! A short time ago, Mrs. Wm. Falk, 721 W. Commercial Street, called us and said she had a stroller, that she'd sell. We got busy with pencil and inserted an ad in the Post-Crescent Classified Section to run for three days. Well the upshot of the matter was that she received 12 inquiries (11 more need strollers) and sold it after the first insertion. She was well pleased, and needless to say is sold on Classified ads.

Don't store away your stroller or buggy... high chair or "what have you." Let some other baby get the benefit.

Why don't you take a look in your attic, basement or storeroom... perhaps you'll have something you can sell. If so... call us at Phone 643... headquarters for placing a Post-Crescent Classified Ad.

Yours,

Tariff Back To Conference Fourth Time

CURTIS BACKS DEMOCRATS ON RATE PROTEST

Speedy Correction Expected
—Bill May Be Up for Vote During Next Week

Washington — (CP) — The tariff bill was returned to conference today for the fourth time when Vice President Curtis upheld a Democratic point of order against its rate provisions.

While the decision will delay the long-pending legislation, Republican leaders expect speedy correction of the rates and return of the bill for a final vote next week.

The rates questioned today are embraced in the original conference report already approved by the house.

The house will have to reappoint conferees before the two houses can negotiate. Democrats in that branch will attempt to instruct the conferees on many rates but house Republican chiefs will obtain a rule to thwart their move and save time.

The vice president upheld the contention that the conferees exceeded their authority in rewriting the duties on watch jewels, rayon, specialty, cheese, and a section providing for free entry of cattle for pasture purposes.

Senate conferees immediately were reappointed and Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, expressed the hope that the house would reappoint its managers during the day so the bill could be brought back to the senate floor by Monday.

AGREE TO CONFERENCE
The house agreed to the further tariff conference, but Representative Garner, the minority leader and one of the conferees moved to instruct the house conferees to concur in the senate provisions for free hides, leather and shoes. A record vote on his proposal was in prospect.

The conference report provides for the house duties on hides, leathers and shoes, which are now free of duty.

In the senate, Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, successfully contended the conferees went beyond their power in fixing a rate of 8 cents a pound on Feta white cheese. The senate bill provided 5 cents and the house 7 cents.

The Kentuckian also won his point that the duty on watch jewels, fixed at 10 per cent in both bills, should be changed to 20 cents apiece by the conferees.

JURYLESS TRIALS WIN HOUSE'S FAVOR

Measure to Let Commissioners Decide Minor Cases Now Goes to Senate

Washington — (CP) — The key piece of legislation in the Hoover Law Enforcement commission's program for increasing the effectiveness of the prohibition statutes today bore the approval of the house and awaited the action of the senate.

This was the much disputed measure to permit United States commissioners to handle minor violations of the dry laws without a jury. It was passed by the house late yesterday after a heated debate. The other measures connected with it were approved by the house on Tuesday.

This group, by amending the Jones law and the United States code would define and fix maximum penalties for misdemeanors and authorize the courts to waive their constitutional right of trial by jury. These, too, aroused a bitter controversy.

Scouting Planes Direct Army Of Fire Fighters

Port Arthur, Ont. — (CP) — Pioneered by three scouting planes to direct their movement, a small army of fire fighters was dispatched into the forests northwest of here today to subdue the worst fires which have ravaged the country for weeks.

Taking advantage of the respite offered by scattered rains and dying winds, the forestry department planned to seek out and extinguish the fires burning in remote sections before they again assume menacing proportions.

Flames which had burned their way to the outskirts of this town and had for several days threatened the destruction of Sioux Lookout have been extinguished.

Forestry officials know the location of several of the worst fires but, but will depend upon the scouting planes to locate others for them.

Find Suspect In Jefferson Bank Holdup

Man Located at Veterans' Hospital Wanted by Badger Authorities

BULLETIN
Battle Creek, Mich. — (CP) — John Conley, 30, patient at the U. S. Veterans hospital at Camp Custer, was arrested this afternoon on a warrant charging participation in a $303,000 bank holdup last November at Jefferson, Wis.

Milwaukee — (CP) — A report at Milwaukee today said a man believed to be John Carl Conley, wanted in connection with the $353,000 holdup of the Jefferson, Wis., State bank last November, had been located at the Veterans' hospital in Battle Creek, Mich.

Capt. John Anderson of the Michigan state police notified the paper he had identified the man as Conley. Wisconsin authorities telegraphed Anderson to hold the man pending their arrival with a warrant issued against Conley last December.

Conley, wanted also for murder and kidnaping, was the object of a nationwide hunt. Bank officials identified Conley as one of the gang of six that held up the bank from police photographs.

The man entered the hospital a few months ago, the paper said, and was treated for mental derangement. He was practically recovered and ready for dismissal when Anderson located him.

Police recovered $316,000 worth of the bonds taken in the robbery after tracing clues in attempts to find a man who shot and fatally wounded a policeman in St. Joseph, Mich., during a traffic argument. Attempts to find the policeman's slayer led authorities to a farmhouse near where the bonds were found.

Fred Burke, gangster, wanted for murder and robbery, was sought for questioning concerning the policeman's death and the discovery of the bonds. Burke has not been found.

HOSPITAL PERSONNEL MUM

Battle Creek, Mich. — (CP) — John Conley, a patient in the United States Veterans hospital here, has been under investigation by state police for several weeks, but he has not been told that he is mentioned in connection with the Jefferson, Wis., bank robbery.

Hospital authorities declined to discuss the matter, but it was indicated they will look with disfavor on any action against the patient unless definite evidence is procured and a warrant issued.

ILLINOIS G. O. P. WANTS DRY LAW REFERENDUM

Chicago — (CP) — Cook County Republicanism, reiterating through its central committee its opposition to prohibition, now proposes to go into the November election fathoming a wet-dry referendum.

The committee today was circulating petitions to get on the November ballot the following questions:

"Shall the eighteenth amendment be repealed?"

"Shall the Volstead act amend-ment be modified or repealed?"

"Shall the Illinois search and seizure act be repealed?"

The Cook County Democratic organization began agitation for similar action several weeks ago, but it failed to gain unanimous support. Chairman Anton J. Cernak, speaking for the "wet" faction of the Democratic party, said today that the Republican action was a "subterfuge" intended to save for the Republican candidates "wet" votes that might otherwise be deflected to the Democratic candidate for United States senator, James Hamilton Lewis.

ZEPPELIN ON LAST LAP OF LONG FLIGHT

Leaves Seville, Spain, for Home Hangar at Friedrichshafen, Germany

BULLETIN
Seville, Spain — (CP) — The Graf Zeppelin left Seville for Friedrichshafen at 6:35 p. m. (11:35 a. m. Appleton time) after spending only a half hour here, after her seventh trip across the Atlantic.

Seville — (CP) — Fresh from her seventh crossing of the Atlantic, the homeward bound Graf Zeppelin flew over the city of Seville today ready to disembark several passengers and then to continue on to Friedrichshafen.

The Graf, after fighting unfavorable weather conditions off the European coast, arrived over Seville at 3:30 p. m. (9:30 a. m. Appleton time). She had been expected here early this morning but heavy rains and winds had forced her to divert from a straight course from the Azores and to swing to the north so that she made her landfall just south of Lisbon, Portugal.

The Graf flew over the city of Seville to an accompaniment of cheers from the inhabitants who saw her last on May 20 when she left for Pernambuco, Brazil, and the United States. The flight from Lissabon to Seville took 55 hours and eight minutes.

After flying over Seville, the Graf had completed about 16,000 miles of her 18,000 mile four-continent journey which started on May 18.

Although it had been raining during most of the day, causing the Graf's lateness, the skies cleared rapidly this afternoon and by mid-afternoon the sun was shining. The wind had dropped and landing conditions were steadily growing more favorable.

12 Injured When Large Plane Falls

Boston — (CP) — One passenger was perhaps fatally injured and 11 others suffered minor injuries and immersion today when a tri-motored Colonial Air transport plane fell into the waters of the municipal airport. Failure of the right motor was given by one of the passengers, a French aviator, as the cause of the accident.

Coast guard boats were assisted by privately owned craft in rescuing the 12 passengers and two pilots of the plane, a number of whom were removed through a hole in the side of the cabin. The plane itself was badly damaged.

Pearl S. Thorsen, president of the P. S. Thorsen company, which has a Boston establishment and whose home is listed as New York city, was probably the most seriously injured. Efforts were being made to revive him hours after the plane came down.

V. DeVaulchier, a French aviator and H. L. Ford of Cambridge, passengers, expressed the opinion that the accident was due to failure of the right motor.

As Bishop Defied Senate

This photograph shows Bishop James Cannon, Jr., as he appeared on the witness stand in Washington when he accused his senate questioners of "persecution" and refused to answer their questions about his southern anti-South campaign of 1928. Members of the senate lobby committee warned him that he would have to "take the consequences" of his refusal to talk.

NEWSBOY REFUSES TO RETURN HOME TO RICH PARENTS

Colorado Springs, Colo. — (CP) — Discovered here where he was earning his living by selling newspapers, a 19-year-old youth, said to be a member of a wealthy Utah, N. Y. family, has refused to return voluntarily to his home.

Police here said the youth, a senior in Utah academy, had been sought widely since his disappearance last October. Thousands of dollars, it was said, have been spent in the search.

Police Inspector I. B. Bruce notified Utah police after the youth was located. A telegraphic answer was received, asking if Imhoff would return home if money was sent him by his father. Bruce said the young man refused the offer.

GOLD RUSH STARTED IN N. BRITISH COLUMBIA

Wrangell, Alaska — (CP) — Lured by the discovery of a body of ore believed to contain copper, gold and silver, with $60 a ton, prospectors are rushing to the Cassiar district 100 miles up the Stikine river, north-east of here in northern British Columbia.

The discovery was made by George Drapich, old time Yukon miner, on the eastern bank of the stream near the village of Glenora. Early arrivals in the district have already staked 32 claims, while a large number of miners will leave here on the next boat.

One of the veins is about 30 feet wide, reports received here said. Samples brought down by Drapich ran $19.41 in copper, $3.20 in gold and indicated a silver content of about five ounces to the ton. A shipment of 15 tons of ore will be brought down the river and sent to smelter as soon as it can be mined, Drapich said.

The strike is in a district where Dr. Forrest A. Kerr of the Canadian Geological survey indicated in an official report more than a year ago that important mining developments might be anticipated.

SHOOTING BY FARMER FOUND ACCIDENTAL

Manitowish — (CP) — Convinced he shot his sister and her son accidentally, authorities today released August Hopp, 41, farmer near here. Mrs. Ida Raatz, the sister, and her son Earle, 19, will recover. He may lose sight of one eye. She was injured in the arm.

Official Book Explains Cause Of Maltese Quarrel

London — (CP) — Details of the conflict between the British government in Malta, important Mediterranean naval base, and the Holy See at the Vatican were revealed today with publication of an official blue book of the subject.

The blue book, which contains correspondence regarding the Maltese situation, charges the Vatican with acting in a manner "which constitutes nothing less than a claim to interfere with the domestic policies of a British colony."

The trouble arose about eighteen months ago when the prime minister, Lord Strickland, himself a Catholic, prevented ecclesiastical authorities from transferring a Franciscan priest who was a native Maltese to a Sicilian monastery against his will.

Maltese Catholics then were forbidden by the churchmen to vote for the government party in the forthcoming elections. A concordat between the government and the Holy See was then signed.

LAKE PROBLEM IS UNSOLVED AFTER CONFAB

Blaine and Deneen Break Off Negotiations to Effect a Compromise

Washington — (CP) — Negotiations for a compromise provision for federal operation of the Illinois waterway, to be written into the pending rivers and harbors bill, had been broken off today by Senators Blaine of Wisconsin, and Deneen of Illinois, opening the way for protracted debate in the senate on the ancient controversy over Chicago's diversion of Lake Michigan water into her drainage canal.

It was said in some quarters at the capital today that a compromise agreement might be reached on the passage of the house measure authorizing waterway developments at a total cost of approximately $122,000,000.

Blaine and Deneen undertook to compose differences on the issue after senators from the lake states served notice they were not content with the senate commerce committee's provision for federal operation of the waterway.

This language would allow diversion of sufficient water "for a commercial, but successful waterway." It prohibits Michigan, led efforts to have written into the bill the language of a recent supreme court decision, which limited the Chicago sanitary district to 1,500 cubic feet per second diversion after 1935.

Blaine said yesterday that he would offer a substitute to the senate measure up for discussion on the floor of the senate. Deneen said he would oppose any effort to write in a specific limitation, insisting that the amount of water allowed should be left to the engineering.

Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, also said he expected to join in the debate.

MORROW BOOMED FOR PRESIDENCY

Former New Jersey Governor and Princeton President Want Him to Run

Trenton, N. J. — (CP) — A presidential boom for Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico and candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination in New Jersey, has been launched here.

With Mr. Morrow occupying a seat on the platform at a political rally last night, Edward C. Stokes, former governor of New Jersey, and Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University, advanced his name as a White House possibility.

"Mr. Morrow," said Mr. Stokes, "is not only worthy to have a seat in the United States senate; Ambassador Morrow is presidential timber."

"I know that I am treading on delicate ground. At Atlantic City the other day he disavowed being a candidate. I don't think he has anything to do with that question. No man in this country is big enough or great enough to decline a call to the presidency."

Dr. Hibben, in opening his address, said:

"I wish to add that if the ambassador should become the president of our country — which is not a wild flight of the imagination — we are going to claim part of him for Princeton for while he is not a graduate of Princeton, we have done the next best thing by adopting him, for we made him a doctor of laws a few years ago."

Mr. Morrow thanked Mr. Stokes and Dr. Hibben for their complimentary statements which, he said, left him "almost speechless."

MRS. OESTERREICH TO GET PART OF ESTATE

Milwaukee — (CP) — Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich charged with the murder of her husband in Los Angeles, is left part of a $12,500 estate by the terms of her mother's will.

The will of Mrs. Magdalena Korachel divides her property equally between Mrs. Oesterreich and another daughter, Mrs. Magdalena Vogt of Wauwatosa.

Mrs. Oesterreich is enroute here to attend final services for her mother, who died last week. She is not expected to arrive until tomorrow.

LIGHTNING BLAMED FOR WOOD-CO FIRE DAMAGE

WALSH SAYS NEW CHARGE MAY FOLLOW

Committee Won't Consider Steps to Punish Bishop Until Wednesday

MAY ISSUE SUBPENNA
Cannon Tells Committee He Has Answered All "Proper" Questions

Little Rock, Ark. — (CP) — Cancelling a speaking engagement at the Arkansas Bar association's convention at Fort Smith, Senator T. H. Caraway of Arkansas, chairman of the senate subcommittee on the senate lobby, today said he was on his way back to Washington today as a result of the controversy between the lobby committee and Bishop James Cannon, Jr.

Washington — (CP) — Bishop James Cannon, Jr., walked out on the senate lobby committee today and his questioners decided to take no legal steps for the present to bring him back.

The committee will not meet again until next Wednesday, and meantime it expects neither to issue a subpoena nor begin contempt proceedings to punish the Southern Methodist leader for his refusal to testify about his anti-South campaign activities in 1928.

As he withdrew, unopposed and followed by a throng of supporters and hangers-on, Cannon took to the committee chamber at the U. S. Capitol, he said, I answered all the questions I could and deluged the committee with a flood of papers and photographs.

Chairman Caraway's action was questioned by some who said Cannon's refusal to answer opened the way to one possible contempt proceeding, while his withdrawal today constituted a second law for a contempt charge.

Although Cannon had appeared voluntarily, Walsh's belief that Cannon having denied himself under committee jurisdiction, could not be withdrawn until evicted.

This morning's action here might be doubt as to the committee's authority to inquire into Cannon's political activities, but there was no doubt the withdrawal today amounted to a contempt.

Today, at the outset of the hearings, Cannon broadened his refusal to cover any and all questions which might be asked while he remained in his status of voluntary witness.

He announced his position in a prepared statement, which he read from the witness stand.

Then, amid applause and hisses from the spectators, he gathered up the crutch upon which he has leaned.

FIND TRACES OF EARLY CIVILIZATION IN WEST

Portland, Ore. — (CP) — Excavation of Indian mounds which already have led scientists to believe they have discovered a much more civilized race than the American Indians who later populated the section, has been started again on the banks of Rogue river, near Gold Hill, Ore.

L. S. Cressman of the University of Oregon, leads the excavating party. Long stone pipes, said to be moulded as perfectly as a Grecian vase, have been found.

SUITS ASK $85,000 OF NASH MOTORS COMPANY

Racine — (CP) — Two damage suits asking a total of $85,000, were filed in circuit court today against the Nash Motors company, and the U. S. Fidelity and Guaranty Co., by Delbert Schilling, 7, and his father, Earl. The boy was run over by a Nash trailer truck in front of the North Racine school last November. He is alleged to have been permanently crippled. A total of $15,000 is asked for the boy and $70,000 for the father.

Nationalists Suffer Second Setback In Chinese War

NORTHERNERS BREAK LINES IN CONFLICT

Defenses Reorganized and Battle Continues Near Strategic Railroad

Shanghai — (P) — Foreign naval dispatches tonight from Tsinan and Chetoo, Shantung province, said the Northern allied forces had broken the Nationalist troops' lines, and reached the Tsinan-Tsingtao railway line in the neighborhood of Chotseun.

The naval dispatches said the Nationalist defense had reorganized near the strategic railway line, and that a sharp engagement was still going on at the time they were filed, late in the day. It was stated, however, that service on the railroad had been interrupted.

The development was said to have aroused apprehension among foreigners in Tsinan. Some prepared for an expected siege of the city, while numbers of others left for Tsingtao, on the coast 250 miles to the east.

This was the second setback of the day for the Nationalist Nationalists. The first was the loss of the important city of Changsha, capital of Hunan province, to a motley horde of Kwangsi province rebels and bandits, known colloquially as the "red" army.

Dispatches tonight from foreign gunboats standing off Changsha said Kwangsi forces totaling 20,000 men had occupied the city, and that more were coming in. The 10,000 Nationalist troops defeated from the central China front north of Chengchow, Honan province, retreated northward after making a feeble show of resistance, it was added.

GUARDED BY GUNBOATS

All foreigners in Changsha had been concentrated on an island in the Yangtze river off the city, the dispatches explained, where they were under the protection of the guns of the foreign gunboats. Japanese residents were said to be evacuating the city, moving to Hankow, Hupeh province, on the Yangtze river.

The declared objective of the "red" army is Hankow and its sister cities, Wuchang and Hanwang.

In decided contrast to most rebel victories, the "red army" was reported in Japanese advices to be maintaining order in Changsha. Looting was prohibited. Ample protection of foreigners was believed provided by the American, British and Japanese gunboats in the harbor.

Meanwhile Nationalist troops were reported in Japanese advices to be retreating before advancing Northern alliance rebels in Honan province. The Northern inflicted severe damage upon Nationalist troops along the Hanchow-Tungkwang railway.

Retreating across the Yellow river in northern Shantung, government troops were reported to have destroyed a span of the railroad bridge in an effort to halt the enemy's advance.

At least four hundred thousand men are battling in Honan and Shantung areas to determine the future of the Chinese government.

Taking advantage of the virtual absence of government troops in civil war, Communists in Amoy and in Fukien province generally became more aggressive. Red armies menacing the city of Changchow, thirty miles west of Amoy, did not press an attack, and provincial troops patrolled the streets to provide protection to foreign missionaries in both places.

BOUNDARY LINE OF STATES DEDICATED

Wisconsin and Michigan Representatives Present at Ceremony

London — (P) — Representatives of Wisconsin and Michigan met here today to dedicate the relocated and much-disputed boundary line between their states.

Robert Rieser, Madison attorney, and Charles A. Habert, state chief engineer, both members of the Wisconsin boundary commission, were the representatives sent by the state of Wisconsin. Members of the boundary commission of Michigan were here on behalf of their state.

The relocated boundary was completed last September. It takes in the territory between the head of the Montreal river to Brule lake, a distance of about 70 miles. The new boundary is marked with concrete markers each half mile.

The original survey was made in 1846 by a Mr. Burt who was commissioned by the federal government to establish the boundary between Michigan and the territory of Wisconsin. Last year the boundary was relocated by Earl G. Harrington of the United States Land Office.

While the relocated boundary line took the dispute between the two states on land, the controversy over the boundary line in Green Bay and Lake Michigan has yet to be settled.

Early this year representatives of the two states met with a member of the United States supreme court to argue the location of the boundary line in Green Bay.

Wisconsin contends that the boundary was not made in accordance with the mandate of the supreme court, that it cuts off about 10 square miles of valuable fishing grounds from Wisconsin fishermen.

Through the supreme court ruled that Michigan has no claim to the boundary and that the boundary line was properly made, the controversy was ended and further action was unnecessary.

LOCAL MAN'S CAR IS STOLEN FROM STREET

LEGION COMMANDER ADDRESSES STUDENTS

With Marshall Graef, commander of the American Legion, as the principal speaker, and Gottlieb "Grandpa" Langstadt, as guest of honor, pupils of Roosevelt Junior high school held a Memorial Day program at the school Thursday afternoon. Patriotic songs were sung by the students, with Earl Miller singing the solo parts.

PLAN INSPECTION OF OIL STATIONS FOR FIRE HAZARDS

Recent $200,000 Blaze at Ripon Has Stimulated Precautionary Measures

The 100,000-gallon gasoline fire in Ripon recently, in which one man was killed and property damage estimated at $200,000 was done, has served to stimulate an investigation of conditions throughout the state in an effort to present similar conflagrations in other cities. Fire Chief George McGillan will be asked to inspect conditions at the several bulk oil stations in Appleton. Mayor John Goodland stated Thursday morning, and if additional protection is needed the common council will take action to provide it.

At Ripon it is expected resolutions will be presented to the council asking that body to prohibit the erection of bulk oil stations within the city limits, or at least to force the bulk stations to take safety measures which would prevent the spread of gasoline fires. The Wadsworth Oil company is planning to relocate its station at Ripon, but it is possible the plans will be delayed until action is taken by the council.

The Fond du Lac city commission has issued an order to gasoline companies requiring them to build concrete retaining walls around bulk station tanks. The walls must form a wall of sufficient capacity to hold the maximum storage of the tanks in the event of a break. Gasoline companies claim, however, that the walls would not be fire safeguards. It has been suggested that the tanks be built on elevated platforms and be equipped with a "sprinkler" system which would surround them with a "curtain" of water in the event of a fire.

In Madison the city council is considering the adoption of an ordinance which would prohibit the erection of bulk stations within the city.

Death Valley Grows Into Brilliant Flower Garden

Beatty, Nev. — (P) — Death Valley, forbidding, mysterious desert whose scalding heat usually is an effective barrier against entrance of summer visitors, has been transformed by a prank of nature into a brilliant area of flowers.

Buck in covered wagon days, in 1870, a party of emigrants, California bound, perished from thirst in the arid waste. The valley, 150 miles long and from 10 to 25 miles wide, received its name from the incident.

So extreme is the heat during most summers that even the lizards and horned toads, existent reptile life from October until the middle of May, mysteriously depart for other habitations.

For 19 consecutive days in May fresh showers fell on the parched desert sands. Myriad varieties of weeds which apparently had lain dormant for many years, suddenly burst into bloom in all parts of the rugged waste land.

The landscape, usually characterized by bare sand dunes and buttes, was changed into a splash of marvellous color. Wild flowers range from yellows and reds to deep purple.

Blossoms carpet the desert floor between Beatty and Chloride cliffs, while from "Hole in the Rock" spring to Kane spring and to survivors well in Death Valley, 112 feet below the sea level the blossoms sweep in a colorful circle.

The phenomenon is a botanists' paradise. Letson Balliet, mining engineer and botanist, said that one hundred varieties of flowers, many of them unclassified, could be gathered within thirty minutes in a radius of fifty yards.

The brilliantly colored flowers include dozens of species of asters, wild columbine, blue larkspur or delphinium, sego lilies, bluebells, daisies, buttercups, poppies, wild geraniums, flowering grasses, Indian paint brush, wood sorrels purple sage and cactus flowers.

Bright yellow is added to the varied hues by patches of dandelions, hedge mustard and dog phenel.

project has been approved by the Dodge county board. Mr. Kelleter and Hobbins were invited to make the inspection trip by Joseph Lake, chairman of the county board, who wishes to show that the road will not interfere with the restoration of Horicon marsh as a game refuge.

Romance, Not Suicide, Seen In Disappearance Of Girl

Los Angeles — (P) — While police of this city and San Francisco are investigating the disappearance a week ago of Miss Bernadine Alice Giddens, Los Angeles co-ed, from the deck of a coastwise steamer, Mrs. W. Giddens, her mother, today expressed belief the girl is in New York City where she plans to marry a former Pasadena, Calif., actor.

No trace of the 23-year-old co-ed has been seen since she boarded a coastal line here on May 27 and registered under the assumed name of "Barbara Gilmore." When the ship docked at San Francisco a day later, stewards found her stateroom empty except for a suitcase and an unsealed note addressed to her father, A. W. Giddens. In the note she said she was attempting "to get away from my old surroundings."

Despite the fact that she subsequently received a letter, posted in Long Beach, from her daughter, in which the girl indicated she contemplated suicide, Mrs. Giddens said she believed her daughter had fled to avoid marrying an unwelcome suitor and to wed the actor who now lives in New York.

Mrs. Giddens revealed that since the young woman came here four years ago from Seattle, Wash., where she attended the university of Washington, she has been involved in a series of love affairs and was engaged to marry at least two men.

In the note to her mother posted in Long Beach before she sailed for San Francisco, Miss Giddens said "life has just played tricks on me — and love, too."

"I am sorry I can't go through with the marriage. I am letting you down, I know, and hurting those I love best. I am choosing this way out, because it is a clean break."

Uncover Big Graft Case In New York

New York — (P) — Investigation of the activities of Dr. William F. Doyle, former veterinarian, before the city board of standards and appeals on behalf of applicants for garage and filling station permits, has disclosed deposits in one bank since 1924 of $1,268,000, United States Attorney Tuttle said today.

Although Mr. Tuttle said there has been much evidence adduced before the federal grand jury that Dr. Doyle received the larger part of his fees in cash, he said a check of the bank account failed to disclose any large cash deposits. He intimated the belief that the cash payments were shared by public officials.

"I have checked this bank account," he said, "for any evidence of deposits of the large amounts of cash which were received by Dr. Doyle during the period covered by the total. So far as can be ascertained, or, at any rate, so far as payments and deposits thus far checked go, there are no entries showing that the cash portions of Dr. Doyle's fees were deposited."

Mr. Tuttle previously had quoted witnesses before the federal grand jury as saying they had paid Dr. Doyle only a small portion of his fee by check and a much larger part in cash, the check being publicly exhibited as the full amount of his payment.

Several deposits in the Doyle account were cited by Mr. Tuttle who pointed out that only one half of the amount he was said to have received in several cases was deposited. He planned to call Dr. Doyle before the grand jury again today.

MAN ACCUSED OF SHOOTING "WIFE"

Woman Who Lived With Him in Strange Triangle Is Seriously Wounded

Cleveland — (P) — Mrs. Theresa Scilla, 34, who for 12 years has lived with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ippolito in a strange triangle, was near death today from wounds received when Ippolito took a brace of pistols and sought to end his marital troubles last night.

Ippolito, police said, went to the home where Mrs. Scilla had been living since authorities broke up his domestic arrangement last March and fired a volley of bullets at the woman. Most of them went wild, one shattering a neighbor's window, but Mrs. Scilla was seriously wounded.

Ippolito was taken to a hospital and given a suspended workhouse sentence and fine of $500 on condition that he pay Mrs. Scilla $1,000 and provide $10 weekly for support of her children.

Ippolito's legal wife ran the home and did the house work while he and Mrs. Scilla worked in garment factories, police discovered. The children of the two women called them "mother" indiscriminately.

Ippolito declined to discuss the shooting. Witnesses, however, told police he charged Mrs. Scilla with intercepting his children by his legal wife on their way home from school.

CHARGE THREE BOYS WITH THEFT OF CAR

Appleton High School Trio Being Investigated by Local Police

Three Appleton high school boys, 15 and 16 years old, were ordered to appear at the police station Thursday morning for an investigation of their activities Wednesday night to determine whether the trio is responsible for the theft of a car owned by George H. Smith, 207 N. Green Bay-st.

The car was taken early Wednesday evening and after police received a report of the theft they got a call from a woman who said she had just seen three young men jump from a machine and leave it parked on Clark-st. near the intersection with Commercial-st. The machine had been stolen on N. Appleton-st.

Officer Gus Henschorn was sent to investigate and he recovered Smith's machine. When he arrived at the place where the stolen car was parked he saw three young men walking down the street. As they noticed the officer they started to run and he gave chase, capturing one of them. The other two boys were picked up later, but they deny knowledge of the theft.

CITY PURCHASES THIRD OF BRICKS FROM POWER CO.

Council Votes to Buy 100,000 to Use for Repair Work on Streets

The common council Wednesday evening voted to buy 100,000 of the 300,000 bricks offered to the city by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company at $15 a thousand. The bricks are those which are being removed in the process of eliminating the street railway tracks.

Alderman Mike Steinhauer protested the purchase of the entire lot, maintaining that it would take the city 20 years to use them, as they are practical only for manholes and catchbasins.

"If we could get them for $1 a thousand it wouldn't be good sense for the city to tie up its money for such a long time," he said.

Alderman George Packard pointed out that in fairness to the Power company, and in appreciation of its cooperation in removing the rails, the city should buy as many as it could reasonably use. The vote was 10 to 2, Alderman Richard Groth and Steinhauer voting no.

The resolution by Alderman Philip Vogt, advising the city to extend the period of its paving bonds, and to relieve taxpayers of the burden of paying interest, was left open.

The object of his resolution is to inaugurate a system whereby Appleton can enter into a comprehensive and well-ordered paving program.

The paving of Fourth, E. Circle, and Green streets was deferred until 1937, a number of streets were added to the paving list, and several streets were removed from the original list prepared by the street and bridge committee.

The Chicago and Northwestern railroad will be notified to install wigwag signals at the corner of Eighth-st and Pierce-ave, Story-st, Sawyer-ave, and Outagamie-st, and the Soo line will be asked to place them at Outagamie, Mason, Badger and Bennett-sts.

C. J. Wassenberg was appointed to the price committee, to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Mike Steinhauer.

The board of review appointed by the mayor includes Aldermen Steinhauer, C. D. Thompson, Walter Greiner, Wasserman, H. G. Kittner and W. H. Vanderheyden.

Request for Class A permits from Paul Kobal, Irving Barth, William Meyer, Edward Dewall, Peter Stark, Mrs. Anna Wettengel, Hubert Wettengel, Paul Borsche, Elmer Johnston, Ernest Stark and Antoine Koehn were referred to the police and license committee. The petition for a class A permit at 1401 W. Second-st was refused because of remonstrances filed.

The matters of the fire department responding to emergency calls from out of the city limits was turned over to the fire and water committee. The request of Chief George T. Prim for an additional motorcycle with sidcar was granted.

The claim of Mrs. T. I. Richardson for $80 for injuries received in an accident due to a broken sidewalk was referred to the judiciary committee and the city attorney.

A new ordinance placing the granting of electrical permits on a sliding scale, the cost of the permit to be in accordance with the cost of the installation, was referred to the ordinance committee and ordered published.

FOR all its virtues, modern industrialism can run amuck under the spur of greed for profits. Witness the ruin threatening the Art of Music.

300 musicians in Hollywood supply all the "music" offered in thousands of theatres. Can such a tiny reservoir of talent nurture artistic progress?

The true function of the machine is to increase the value of the product fed into it—not to debase it. Therefore mechanical music as a substitute for living music, is a spurious form of progress—like a loom converting good wool into shoddy.

The grind organ, however operated, is a grind organ still. For music is an emotional art, a form of social intercourse, and hence dependent upon human contact.

Who profits by the elimination of genuine music from the theatre? Not

FISHERMEN FLOCK TO WOLF RIVER AS WHITE BASS RUN

June brings many things but as far as fishermen are concerned the most important of these are white bass.

Reports from the Wolf river villages, especially at Gills Landing, are that the shining fish are running by the thousands, being especially hungry for minnow bait in the morning and evening.

The run has been on since Memorial day when thousands of fish were caught by sportsmen who flocked to upper river points. The run probably will continue another ten days, residents along the river say.

The legal limit for the fish is 25 daily.

CURRENT WEAKNESS IN STERLING CAUSE OF REAL DISCUSSION

Just Now It Is Fluctuating in Low Price Area Around
4.85

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York — So dull are all the markets for securities, for money and for exchange that movements, otherwise passing without notice, are today the subject of grave discussion as to their significance.

This applies to the current weakness in sterling. This measure of the balances between London and New York, as well as those at other financial centers, is fluctuating in a low price area around 4.85. It would have to go quite a bit under this figure to start gold movements. It is so low, however, that it perplexes those bankers who have made foreign exchange a life study and who can see no more reason why sterling should be acting so contrary to its seasonal trend than the dealer in bonds can discover an explanation of the dead-ness of his market with its surroundings of cheap money.

This is the time of year when exchange on London reflects the purchases contingent on settlements for the summer tourist trade. This affects sterling and francs and, with the expanding numbers of Americans who are spending a portion of their vacations in Germany, it also reflects in German marks.

MORE, CHEAPER TOURS

The word from the steamship companies and the tourist agencies is that fewer expensive European trips are being planned this year, but more of those of moderate cost, which would take from the exchange market some of its seasonal support.

Another theory is the old one of the "flight of capital" from England on the increasing income imposts and fear of capital taxation. This crops up every time sterling hits the toboggan and is always denied both in New York and in London. It is mixed up with the tendency of English investors to come into the American market for securities whenever they see prospects for a profitable ride in them. There is the same sort of deference to the American list of "equity" stocks today by Europeans as there was last year, but it is rather passive just as it is with the domestic public.

Weakness in sterling has been associated with exchange operations between London and European money markets. For some weeks Paro drew gold freely from the English capital. The amount finally reached nearly $71,000,000 of which about $33,000,000 was taken from the bank of England. Had not this export reached such large proportions, the discount rate of the English bank would probably have been reduced to 2 1/2 per cent. Sterling stiffened when the gold outflow ceased.

HITS LOWEST LEVEL

Now comes the fall in exchange here to the lowest level of the year which seems to remove the prospect of a change in the rate in London Thursday.

The world's money markets are overflowing with cheap, short term money. Rates are the lowest since before the war. In London, two and three months bills are quoted at 2 1/2 per cent. In Paris, money has loaned this week at 1 per cent. In Berlin, it is so much under the discount rate of the Reichbank that a second cut in the official figure is being considered.

To some extent the backing up of funds into the short term market has to do with the reparations loans, for which capital is being reserved.

48 ARRESTS MADE BY POLICE LAST MONTH

Forty-eight arrests were made by Appleton police during May, according to the monthly report of Police Chief George F. Prim. Arrests for parking on College-ave for more than 90 minutes led the list of offenses.
There were 17 arrests under this ordinance. There also were five arrests for parking more than two hours on Appleton-st. Other arrests were as follows: drunkenness, 3; driving a car without a proper license, 2; parking without lights, 2; parking in prohibited zone at side of postoffice, 2; parking in prohibited zone on Midway, 4; speeding, 4; and one each for jumping an arterial, drunken driving, reckless driving, embezzlement, making a "U" turn on College-ave, obtaining money under false pretexts, parking violation, carrying concealed weapons and making a left turn.

The belief in banking circles in the United States and in Europe is that once this loan has been offered, there will be more consideration for other forms of investment.

A foreign exchange dealer in discussing the current weakness in sterling and its contrariness, said that the old formulas governing exchange could no longer be applied as such a large part of business, once done through the medium of sterling, was being carried on in dollars and loans on commodities that formerly were cancelled in two months but now were renewed and renewed again.

Figures of trade between the United States and England in the first quarter of 1930, he thought, might be a factor at present as they were unfavorable to England.

SILHOUETTE MUST BE STATUESQUE

And to Make Season En-

Wants Floral Scents

BY AILEEN LAMONT
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press
New York — (CPA) — A year ago, everybody was cracking a vertebra to gain a boyish silhouette. This summer, Paris says the silhouette is to be statuesque. Not statuesque like Venus, but like a statue with — for instance — a black crepe de chine evening frock with a tiny bolero and with four deep rows of diamonds of heavy, black silk fringe from hip to knee. And perhaps the upper part of the gown does resemble that of Venus — a petit peu.

The belles of 1830 wore very short

Talks To Parents

PSYCHOLOGY
BY ALICE JUDSON FEALE

Just now Billy is especially interested in the subject of boats — big boats, little boats, sail boats, steam boats and barges — he is eager about them all. At school he builds them of clay and of wood. Playing in his own back yard at home, he stage, naval battle. More than once he has run away at the water front hanging over the edge of the pier.

If I were Billy's mother I would capitalize this enthusiasm I would get for him pictures of ships whenever I could find them. I would give him, at home, place and materials where he might build them to his heart's content. I would myself try to find out something of toy boat buildings. I would bring home from the library all the stories I could find that dealt with the adventures of the sea.

I would, if possible, take him on boat rides, a deep sea fishing trip or a jaunt in a coast-wise steamer.
I would go with him to visit the engine room of any boat we traveled on.

I would encourage his talking to every fisherman, every deck hand, mechanic or officer whom he could cavalcade into conversation.

that children learn not only facts which are in themselves worthwhile, but also the ability to pursue their own interests. The child who is helpceiving an education which more we are learning to value as one of the most important things in the development of character.

One hundred and seventy-five children were treated in the free dental clinic at Lincoln school during the school year, 36 more than last year, and two more bottles of and 26 more than in 1927-28. The approximate cost of the work done assuming that it had been done under usual dental fees, was $1,561.

During 1928, the year before, 156 children were treated.

Of the 175 pupils treated, 69 were pupils of school children and 104 from the public schools.

Prophylaxis treatment was given to 155 pupils, and 227 amalgam fillings were done by the dentists. Other work included 18 amalgam fillings with cement bases, 21 synthetic, 52 copper cement, one porcelain crown, and two root canals. There were 136 extractions, and three hours of prophylaxis treatment were given.

TOO MUCH NAVY INTERFERENCE

The public should not get the wrong conception of the London treaty. It is not the business of the navy to draft the treaty or to fix its terms. It is the business of the civil government and the navy is not the government. The navy already has had in a public sense too large a part in the consideration of the treaty by the senate. A long list of officers was called by politicians opposed to it, not only to give testimony on its technical phases, but to express their opinion of national policies. This is a mistake.

The delegates sent to London had all of the information the score or more of admirals and other officers have presented to the senate committee, and a lot more besides. They were the judges. Their judgment was better than that of the admirals and general board, as must always be the case, unless the civil government breaks down or abdicates. They and the president knew what they were doing better than the admirals for they were weighing facts and factors the navy knew nothing about, was totally ignorant of. They were weighing questions of state in the broadest effects and most profound consequences. The navy was only an incident in the proceedings, not the main show, as some politicians and admirals seem to think.

All of the information given to the senate committee was available to the senate without this hearing. Giving it publicity was to fortify political opposition to the treaty. Opinions expressed by the witnesses on policies of state should have been confined to executive session if permitted at all. The whole performance was repugnant to our institutions. The military establishment does not decide how large a standing army the nation shall maintain, or how large a navy. It is not its part to determine the military power, either in relation to the military power of other nations or for domestic requirements. This responsibility devolves solely on the civil authority, the congress and the president.

We do not permit the national guard to fix the strength of the state militia; it has no voice in it. It is done exclusively by the legislature and the governor. In the United States the military authority is subordinated at all times to the civil, and properly so. Otherwise, we should have militarism and an army and navy out of all proportion to our requirements. Questions of state and civil policies are far more important than military, even in their direct bearing upon the military establishment, for they have to do with the forces of peace, not merely as fighting machines but as great moral and political instruments.

If the military establishment created the navy we would undoubtedly have the biggest navy in the world, but that would gain us nothing. Indeed, it might be our undoing just as German militarism was its own undoing, by arraying the rest of the world against us. The military opposed reduction of the standing army, but it was reduced on the judgment of the civil authority wisely, and the nation has profited by it. There is no end to the size and power of the military establishment we should set up, both on land and sea, if we were to provide against every eventuality, every bugaboo, every scarecrow, every phantom of the imagination. We could go on building ships and drilling and arming soldiers ceaselessly and without limit, if we proposed to make the United States supreme throughout the world.

But national security and peace rest fundamentally on other principles and other considerations; on the soundness, righteousness and justice of civil policies, the moral strength and courage of the nation, its resources and wealth. The plenipotentiaries we sent to London were civil, not military, as were those of the other nations. The navy men who accompanied them were solely advisers and without diplomatic authority. The navy had no part in the negotiations and was entitled to none. The real issues transcended all affairs of the navy. They were decided by statesmen—could be decided only by them, a delegation of seven of the ablest men we have in public life, supported by the president. Their decision was the result of a long consultation with the naval authorities on technical details, after months of intensive study of naval problems in conjunction with the general naval board.

The admirals talk of a navy to protect American commerce throughout the world. This is a question of civil policy, not for the navy to determine. As a matter of fact no such navy can exist, or be built, and none is needed. They talk of a navy powerful enough to carry a war in the Orient against Japan. Who wants such a navy except the navy itself? The United States in the Washington arms conference definitely renounced naval superiority in the western Pacific and turned it over to Japan. It did this on the theory that Japan was entitled to control in that sphere and that security and order would be better guaranteed by giving her this responsibility. It was a manifestation of high confidence in Japan and events have proved that it was not misplaced. There is no more reason why we should seek naval supremacy in the Orient than in Europe.

But there are the Philippines, they tell us. We must hang on to them even at the cost of militarism that would dominate the world; a collection of islands in the distant Pacific which we accidentally seized as a by-product of the war with Spain, a totally alien race, alien soil, outside our sphere and foreign to our national interests. Why not own other islands in the western Pacific and acquire naval bases and possessions about Africa and in the Mediterranean to promote our commerce in those parts of the world, and to safeguard it against Great Britain, France and Italy? Why not let our ambitions run wild in the name of commerce and national greatness? For the good and sound reason that we do not believe in militarism and that we should be content to share power with other nations and satisfied with security and undisputed power within our sphere, namely the American continents. Fortunately these are not military questions but questions of state, and we have a sane civil government to determine them.

The admirals split hairs over precise parity with Great Britain, but their case fell flat when it was disclosed that the differences over gun caliber related to only a handful of vessels. If we had half the empire Great Britain possesses, scattered all over the earth, with thousands of miles of vital sea communications to protect, would we, with our wealth and resources, give any other nation an equal navy? What a roar we should hear from our military and even commercial lions at such a proposition! We have existed a century and a half in a war-ridden world with a navy admittedly second to that of Great Britain, yet we have never lost a war and have grown to be the most powerful, most prosperous, most secure of all nations.

There is no denial of the fact anywhere by anyone that the navy apportioned to us by the London treaty gives us absolute security and guarantees our national defense against all comers. Furthermore, we can now have without competition a navy in all respects the same as that of Great Britain, so what is the sense of quibbling over microscopic details? We cannot go to Europe to fight Great Britain nor can Europe come to America to fight us. The same is true with regard to Japan. This is as it should be. It is a question whether even now we will build up to the limits afforded by the treaty. We have never cared to outstrip Great Britain or even equal her navy, in the past. What then is all the fuss over tonnage to the ounce or the bore of a few guns to the inch? Splendid points for naval technicians and academicians to argue, but matters about which the nation does not care a hang and which are not at all involved in the policies of state which underlie the treaty.

Greater things than ships and guns were in the scales of the deliberations which concluded this treaty. Moreover the treaty and the policies it embodies were determined by competent men, the most competent the country possesses, in the light of all assembled facts, and the treaty is to run for only five years! The opposition is militarism, jingoism, inordinate fear or hatred of foreigners. Not one valid point has been made against the naval provisions in relation to civil policy. If the senate wishes to repudiate that policy, it is privileged to do so, but it needs no advice or assistance from the navy in reaching this decision. Finally, it will not reverse the policy, both because it approves it and because it knows the American people would tolerate no other.

Again the height of something or other has been reached. Near Green Bay the other day, somebody stole 11 hives of bees. Not that We Haven't Seen this Before, but We Never Did Get it Straight THE HIGHER THE LOWER

A gentleman stepped briskly up to the window marked "Sleeping Car Reservations."

"Give me a berth to Pittsburgh," he said.

"Upper or lower?" asked the agent.

"What's the difference?"

"It's a difference of $2.17 in this case," replied the agent. "The lower is higher than the upper. The higher price is for the lower. If you want it lower you will have to go higher. We sell the upper lower than the lower. In other words, the higher the lower. Most people don't like the upper, though it is lower, because it is higher. When you occupy an upper you have to get up to bed and get down when you get up. You can have the lower if you pay higher. If you are willing to go higher it will be lower."

So he went by airplane because that was both higher and higher.

ADAM SMITH'S BIRTH

On June 5, 1723, Adam Smith, a British political economist, regarded as the founder of economics as a separate branch of human knowledge, was born at Kirkcaldy, Scotland.

After his education at the University of Glasgow and at Oxford he became professor of logic at the former institution. When he was 25 he gave a course of lectures on rhetoric and literature at Edinburgh which not only gave him considerable of a reputation as a scholar but introduced him to the learned and accomplished men of his time. One of these was David Hume, the great philosopher.

In 1763 Smith became tutor for the young Duke of Buccleuch and accompanied him to France. In the year or more he spent in Paris, Smith was attracted to a group of thinkers who styled themselves as Economists. Their theories influenced "him to such an extent that when he returned to his native town three years later he began to write his famous work, "An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations."

Five editions of this book were printed within the lifetime of the author and it is the work upon which his world-wide reputation rests.

THE PHYSIOLOGY OF REST. FIRST STEPS IN THE ART OF RELAXATION.

People who find it difficult to get to sleep at night, singers, most middle age who have high blood pressure or a tendency thereto, victims of hiccough, and young women who have functional difficulties of their own, should practice this diaphragmatic every night and every morning for a minute or so:

Lie on your back with knees flexed and arms relaxed at your sides. Allow one hand to rest on belly, relaxed, to serve as an indicator of the belly's movement. Now quietly and slowly lift the hand by taking a gentle, prolonged and moderately deep breath of air, to see how high the bulging or expansion of the belly will raise the hand. Then just as quietly and slowly let the air out and see how low the hand will fall as the belly sinks down with expiration. When the slow quiet expiration is finished, then follow it with a moderately forced expiration, to see whether you can contract the belly still more, the let the effort be always moderate, not a strain.

Repeat the cycle perhaps ten times.

Thruout the exercise strive to keep everything else relaxed as the paralyzing, except the diaphragm and belly. This is not so easy as it may seem, but you'll learn in time to carry out the exercise with skill. The ideal is even, smooth, free action of the diaphragm and belly, without jerky movements, strain or hindrance.

Dr. Clelia Duell Mosher describes in detail this exercise in her book "Personal Hygiene for Women," published by the Stanford University Press, California, and she has found the exercise a boon to college women who were subject to painful and irregular function.

Dr. Israel Rappaport observed what he called the low breathing habit in many patients who had excessive blood pressure, and he found that this breathing exercise, or one of the similar character, carried out over period of several months, usually brought down the blood pressure by 30 per cent of the abnormal excess.

Consult your Howell's Textbook of Physiology—copy of which should be in every good home library—and you will learn that with each such natural inspiration (diaphragmatic and belly breathing) considerable blood is sucked from the greater circulation (general arteries and veins) into the lesser circulation (from right side of heart thru lungs and back to left side of heart), and that's how such breathing tends to lower excessive blood pressure.

Remember, this breathing exercise is the best imitation you can do of yourself fast asleep or under ether or chloroform narcosis. When you're fast asleep you just naturally do all your breathing with your diaphragm and belly. It is only when you're awake that you try to breathe like an emotional movie heroine or a picture of one of those handsome brutes in the back pages of one of those freak physical culture mags.

In other words, due to bad education nearly everybody breathes improperly, interfering more or less in the natural breathing, trying to make it chesty, trying to hold in the belly, makes no difference whether one is a flapper or a collegiate sport or a guy with more hair on his chest than on his coco. It takes a primitive savage to show us how to breathe. There, indeed, is the secret of the extraordinary endurance often shown by men who have never been indulged, so to speak, by this chesty complex of ours.

Cut out the instructions for the breathing exercise, every body, and try it on your poor handicapped, repressed inhibited diaphragm nights when you hit the couch.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Dust and Jack.

Please advise me in regard to the merits of the cleaning outfit described in enclosed circular (Mrs. S. H. A.)

Answer.—The circular describes a vacuum cleaner and carries a "TINNY" from what the vacuum cleaner people call a "nationally recognized authority" and the warning is against contact with "infectious cleaner bag dirt."

The joker is the word "infectious." If cleaner bag dirt were "infectious" it would be a little dangerous to handle. But it is no more infectious than any other dust in any other quantity, so I assure you one vacuum cleaner is just as sanitary as another—and I am more than a nationally recognized authority. I'm an internationally recognized authority; on health. Moreover, I'm receiving no fee from the vacuum cleaner people for telling the truth.

Every Time Magnific Personality.

Write me your wife touches steel, sink, any metal, or in fact any person, a spark seems to jump from her finger, and it frightens her so that often she drops things. At first I thought it was only imaginary, but I find there really is a spark of considerable force. (M. J. F.)

Answer.—Most of us have experienced the same thing, when conditions were favorable. By friction of the feet on the floor one develops and accumulates a small charge of static, and when the air is dry there is a startling snap or spark when one's body approaches another body. Unfortunately it doesn't qualify one for a job in the circus or as a clairvoyant. It can't do any harm, so your wife need not be alarmed by it. (Copyright John F. Dillon Co.)

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Mother Elms probably knows more about the girls of burlesque than anyone else in town.

Her title at the National Winter Garden theater is wardrobe mistress. But burlesque girls wear hardly enough to keep a 91-year-old lady active, so Mother Elms' main job is to "look after the girls" themselves. And as a tribute to her kindly watchfulness, they have just given this gray-haired, motherly Irish woman a birthday party.

The National Winter Garden is hardly as grand as its impressive name. Last stage in Manhattan of the old time, unadorned burlesque of burlesque beauty and ribald humor, it is on the top floor of an unpretentious building at Second avenue and Houston street, in the rialto of the lower east side.

Only a block away is the Bowery from whose theatrical traditions of the pre-Lillian Russell days the National Winter Garden it not too far away.

TROUPE MOTHER

"I'm a well-hugged mother," says Mother Elms, meaning that she is a net of her chorus girls, who might fly upon the stage to delight a mostly cigar-smoking audience.

Mother Elms was 10 years old when she came from Ireland. She remembers New York when one could ride around the city in horse cars. Her family lived on a far, not so very far from her present apartment on Washington Heig.

Mother Elms has been at the ator seven years, most of her listening to the hopes and we her girls. She lives with a dau one of her nine children, take, walks and gives most of her to the church.

Every morning she boards a 3 avenue El train that gets her to theater before noon, although the is nothing for her to do until several hours later. At midnight, when the show is over, she takes the El back home, often accompanied by one of the girls.

The latter bring her little gifts at odd times and frequently sandwiches when they come in for the performances. She also has a benevolent nature and once invited a hungry youth she noticed on the street to have supper with her.

To avoid wounding his pride, she told him she was afraid to go into the restaurant alone. After she had left the money for the meal beside her plate, she slipped away on the pretext of putting in a telephone call.

She is looking forward to a trip to the old country promised her by her employers, the Minsky brothers, if she lives to be 100.

LILAC MAN

What is supposed to be the largest privately owned collection of lilacs in the world is on the Long Island in the care of Theodore A. Havemeyer, wealthy sugar refiner and capitalist. Lilacs have been his hobby for 20 years. He has more than 150 varieties in his garden, which he himself tends.

Yet all this became public only after he was awarded a special medal recently at a county flower show.

But mild in manner though he may be, he is not lacking in courage. Once he defied a group of strikers in one of his lumber plants. They had halted a wagon, intimidated the driver, and cut the harness to pieces.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — It's getting to be somewhat of a bore to stocky, pink-faced, bald-headed Dave Baird to sit day after day on the floor of the United States senate at a desk he can hardly call his own.

He says he feels out of place—he hardly knows what to do with himself.

Baird is the man who came down to the capitol from New Jersey when President Hoover sent Walter Edge to Paris as American ambassador. He took Edge's seat in the senate, to remain there until some one was duly elected.

He will be a senator until March 3 of next year, the time when Edge's term would have expired.

FIRST PUBLIC OFFICE

It's the first public office that Baird has ever held. Though an admitted power of New Jersey politics for years, he has remained in the background. Banking and the lumber business have occupied his time.

In the senate he plays the role of an observer. He has nothing to say during debate on the various questions that arise. He sits quietly on the last row of the republican side of the chamber at a desk close to the wall. He votes regularly with the republicans.

His legislative life is minor in character. It consists of introducing such bills as to permit carillons to enter this country free of duty, or a relief measure for some sailor who has drifted in and asked him for help.

Baird's father was a United States senator before him and sat in that body under the same circumstances as the son. He, too, was appointed to fill out an unexpired term with the understanding that he would step aside to permit another to run. Incidentally, it was Edge for whom the elder Baird got out of the way.

HUMAN

Out of the senate, Baird is one of the most approachable men on the hill. He is intensely human and generally well-liked.

His father's memory is one of his most cherished possessions. His mother died when he was a child. Just the other day an unknown constituent wrote the senator a letter in which he made mention of his father and of the great admiration he had for him.

So moved was the son that he found it unable to answer the letter. His secretary had to frame the reply. And he can get so worked up while discussing the menace of communism that tears stream down his face.

But mild in manner though he may be, he is not lacking in courage. Once he defied a group of strikers in one of his lumber plants. They had halted a wagon, intimidated the driver, and cut the harness to pieces.

Baird procured new harness, went into their midst, climbed into his wagon and personally drove it two miles back to the plant.

The Tinymites
By Hal Cochran

THE big canal boat sailed along and 'round about the breeze was strong and all the Tinsies sat on deck where they could keep real cool. Said Scouty, "Gee, I'd never dream that any boat could climb a steam. I've always thought a ship sails on the level, as a rule."

Then Clowny said, "Oh, mercy me! You're as confusing as can be. Explain just what you mean. Then maybe I can help you out. You say this ship climbs now and then. Well, if it does, please tell us when. I'd like to watch so I'll know what it is all about."

The Travel Man then said, "Well, I can very quickly tell you why our wee friend Scouty's puzzled. We go through some locks, you see. When through the lock the ship has nosed, the entrance gates are quickly closed. And then the ship is raised up to the height it ought to be.

"The locks are filled up mighty quick. The ship goes up too, very slick. Then other gates are opened and we're on a higher stream."

"Oh, now I see," we Scouty said. "We're lifted to a water bed that's higher. Why, that really is more simple than 'would seem.'"

The boat stopped at a little town. They all got off and looked around. "Let's take a walk," one Tiny said. "We'll be here quite a while. And, while we're here we'll eat a bite. I'm sure that it will taste just right." The very thought of eating made all of the Tinsies smile.

They had their lunch and it was good. They all ate everything they could and then they walked down many streets and were not tired at all. The sights they saw brought quite a thrill and everyone was quiet till one Tiny cried, "Oh, look! I've never seen a street so small."

BONDS OF STANDARD OIL RANKED AMONG BEST INVESTMENTS

They Are Suited for Those Requiring Highest Degree of Safety

EDITOR'S NOTE: (This is the second of three articles summarizing the series just completed on the Oil Stocks. In these three articles Mr. Hughes gives a statement of the situation as a whole from the standpoint of the investor.)

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1930, by Const. Press
New York—Investment opportunities in oil securities fall under three or four general heads. First there come the bonds of the Standard Oil and of the stronger independents. These rank with the highest grade of industrial investments responsive in market price only to changes in the money rate. They are suitable for those who require the highest degree of safety and are content with a modest return, from 4 1/2 to 5 per cent in the present market, and their position has been in no way changed by the difficult conditions the industry has faced in the past two or three years.

Next should be put the common stock, capital stock where it is only one class, of these same companies although here more discrimination must be used in the selection. The price of these stocks fluctuates with the general market and with the trading attitude toward the oils but the investment value changes very slowly and that always on the side of advance. One may pay too high a price for these stocks, that is too high measured by the immediate trend of the market, but if one is patient the increase in equity which goes on steadily from year to year will atone for the error. The yield on these stocks like that on the corresponding bonds is low which is a part of the price paid for the assurance of eventual capital appreciation. It ranges between 4 and 5 per cent with the average nearer the lower rate than the higher and with some stocks of particularly strong corporations selling to give even less than 4 per cent.

Such stocks are not only sound investments over the longer term but they have a high collateral value and are always good security for a loan. They should not, of course, exclude from an investment list other securities of merit but they can form a substantial part of such a list and while no one can say whether they may not be purchased on more advantageous terms next month or next year no one can assert the contrary. The time to invest in stocks of this grade is when one has the money.

INCREASE INTENSITY OF TWIN RIVER LIGHT

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—The first increase in intensity of the light at Twin River Point Light Station, just announced by the Lighthouse Service, will benefit Wisconsin traffic on Lake Michigan.

Twin River Point, just a few miles north of Manitowish, Wis., is of much importance to shipping on the Lake. North and south bound traffic, following the route agreed upon by the Lake Carriers Association, sight this light in order to alter their course for ports at both ends of the Lake, according to the Lighthouse Service.

The geographic range of the light is 19 miles, and with its intensity increased to 240,000 candlepower, it will aid vessels approaching Manitowish from the north, and car ferries plying between Manitowish and the eastern shore of Lake Michigan at all times of the year.

It will also prove valuable to the large fishing fleet which operates all year from Two Rivers Harbor just south of the light.

Real Study, Skill Now Required To Catch Fish

BY B. A. CLAFLIN

There was a time years ago when all that was necessary to do to catch fish was to dig a can of worms, or, as we used to do when boys, follow the plow that Dad hired to "turn over" the garden, proceed to the "deep hole" in the river, or push out on a raft in some lake and drag out all the fish we wanted.

All that has changed, however, it now is a matter of advanced study in order to ascertain where we can fish with some assurance of success. And it is no longer necessary to use the messy angle worm, or to kill the inoffensive frog by impalement on a cruel hook in order to catch fish. Artificial lures have become an assured fixture in angling. It is possible to take any kind of game fish on man-made imitations of their natural food, if such they may be called.

And yet, much of one's success as an angler depends upon his knowledge of how to present these lures. Nor are the joys of fishing with modern tackle merely "catching fish." Use of proper equipment combines the satisfaction, such as the golfer or archer knows, of accuracy in a well placed cast, with that of tangible results in fish. It is the most ancient, honorable, democratic, restful and universal sport, available to all mankind.

The increasing scarcity and elusiveness of fish have taught today's successful angler to place a higher and higher value on favorable looking spots, or those known to have a "fishy" reputation. These the expert "combs out" thoroughly, rather than rushing about here and there with impatience. Instead of rashly pelting into these likely spots, the wise one approaches them with quietness and care barely lifting the

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

LOU talk to the woman this evening . . . get her to show you her patchwork quilt . . . old ladies always have them, don't they, with pieces of their wedding dresses? And I'll manage the letter." Jack's voice was eager.

"She'll have a patched work quilt," Sue agreed, her eyes laughing in spite of her high resolve to be cool, calm, indifferent. Suddenly she threw away her resolutions. She would take what the gods sent and be happy. A rainy night, a country inn, detective stunts to pull off, and Jack as an ally. The gods were kind tonight. And if tomorrow night they were indifferent . . . she would have tonight.

"Splendid," she approved. She even liked him better because he got such a thrill out of such a mediocre plan.

They registered at the hotel, and Sue went upstairs to the plain, neat room with its old-fashioned walnut bed and dresser. She was back in the dining room in 10 minutes and found Jack waiting for her.

A fire crackled on the hearth; the chintz curtains were dotted with red and the geraniums in the window had blossoms. Sue was openly appreciative of the comforts and the woman smiled and thawed.

Jack was complimentary about the cooking and she smiled some more. Sue could understand that. Jack's smile was so disarmingly boyish, his voice so winning, and his face so lean and strong and happy that any woman, whether she had criss-cross wrinkles or a wild rose bloom in her cheeks, had to be agreeable.

"Do you live alone?" Sue asked.

"With my grandson. He's not here now. He's away," she answered. Then she refused to mention him again.

Sue lavished adjectives on the hand-made dollies, old-fashioned and necessary as they were, which adorned the table.

But she noticed that the woman had shrewd eyes. She would have a scheming grandson, she decided. After they had eaten, she started to talk to her, and the woman talked on, although her eyes watched cunningly. Eventually she got out the blocks she had made . . . and Jack had disappeared.

Once the woman started to leave, Sue knew that she must act quickly. If she left she would probably go to her room and Jack and the letter were still gone.

"Wait! Please, just a minute." She put her handkerchief to her mouth. "I think I'm going to . . . to faint."

The woman grabbed a bottle of water and splashed some on her face. And Sue kept her there for another 15 minutes, pleading fright because of the darkness and loneliness.

"That young man who came with you, what's he doing?" the woman asked.

"Oh, he's . . . he's busy," she answered.

"What's he to you?"

"Oh, we're just friends."

"Hm!" There was suspicion on the thin, shriveled face.

Friends?

Sue wondered how much she knew. Jack had meant to take the letter. So did she. Signed by order of the court. But they had known the woman would destroy the letter rather than accede to any request. Once they had the letter they were safe.

Suddenly the woman looked at Sue: "You've got reason to be scared all right. You came here for no good reason. I'm on to your tricks."

Next: More complications.

UNIT BANKER MUST CLEAN HOUSE, SAYS ASSOCIATION HEAD

Necessary to Put Institution in Perfect Order to Meet Competition

Milwaukee (AP)—The banker who wishes to operate as an individual unit rather than as a part of a chain or group system must "put his house in perfect order" to meet competition, A. C. Kingston, Stevens Point, president of the Wisconsin Bankers' association, told the 36th annual convention of the body here today.

President Kingston said he had nothing to say for or against the new methods in banking, which have sprung up recently. The changes in banking methods was a note of warning to the small banker, however, he said.

"If you intend to remain as a unit banker," Mr. Kingston said, "it will be up to you to associate together in a permanent and very definite organization such as a regional clearing house. Branch and chain banking is bringing pressure to bear on us to improve the quality of our institution. A banker who wishes to maintain his bank as an independent unit must operate under the most efficient and scientific methods if he desires to prosper in the face of present competition."

"We have many small bankers in Wisconsin who do not operate their institution in the very best and most efficient manner. I am afraid that they are heading for disaster; there will be no place for them in the present and future competition of the strong, able managed, independent as well as branch and group banks."

Kingston advocated the establishment of a state police system for protection of citizens' savings.

There are 22 county boards of supervisors which have appropriated thousands of dollars to provide better police facilities," he said. "I believe this should not be necessary and the state ought to furnish a general system of state police."

The association president also urged the bankers to devote more attention to legislation. During the last session of the state legislature the association urged the passage of many bills but met with failure.

The speaker urged renewed support for the bill prescribing an examination for bank executives.

Mr. Kingston told of the constant decrease in number of state banks and commenting on the failure of 17 banks since Jan. 1 said he believed the agricultural depression was chiefly to blame.

Only a few years ago farm mortgages and farm paper in the developed agricultural districts of Wisconsin were considered the soundest kind of a bank investment," he said. "The present reverses and unbalanced agricultural conditions extend over a period of nine years. Such being the case, I do not believe the small town country banker can in any way be criticized for taking securities into his bank that had proven to be gilt edge for the past century."

"This agricultural depression is something that we have had to deal with for several years, and no doubt, shall have to give consideration for many years in the future, but let us not blame this condition to poor banking."

The speaker said he still had faith in the small bank and that the small bank was serving the community as well today as it has in the past.

"A large bank does not necessarily mean a safe bank," he said. "A small bank can be just as safe and just as capable as a large one and sometimes more so since all the departments of the small bank are under the direct supervision of one executive, while in a larger bank the business is departmentized and it is not so convenient to keep definite details under the control of the executives."

"There are many banks in the state that I can refer to which are good substantial town banks; and since they have a satisfactory earning record, they are a good asset to their community."

FISHERMAN GETS WORST OF BATTLE WITH PORCUPINE

Weyauwega—John Hay, a trout fisherman, while camping in the northwest corner of Waupaca, was awakened by a gnawing outside his shanty door. With a stout stick in one hand and a lamp in the other he went out to see what was making the noise. He found a porcupine. He aimed a heavy blow with his club, but just as he was about to strike he tripped and fell. His face lit on a cushion and told him the porcupine had removed 17 quills from his face.

CHANGE TRAFFIC REGULATIONS AT NEENAH CORNER

Right Turn Against Red Lights Will Be Permitted at Intersection

Neenah—New traffic regulations were adopted by the common council Wednesday evening, including an ordinance covering the right turn against the red with orange light at the Wisconsin-ave. Commercial-st. intersection. Under the new regulations drivers planning to turn right will take the extreme right lane at the approach to the intersection. They will make the turn with the red light. Drivers intending to go directly across the intersection or make a left turn, must wait for the green light and must travel in the lane provided for through traffic. At no time must a car pass straight across the intersection and get into the right hand lane, nor must a driver intending to make the right hand turn get into the through traffic lane. This new ruling is made to remedy the congestion at that corner.

Amendments to ordinances regulating parking of cars on certain streets also were passed. One amendment provides for a 45 minute parking limit on North and South Commercial-sts. during the day, including the two business hours. Drivers are not allowed to park on the south side of Franklin-st. nor on the north side of Washington-ave. between S. Commercial and Walnut-sts. during the day; cars cannot be left within 25 feet of any street corner or arterial highway signs, nor within 40 feet of the corners at the intersection of Doty-ave and S. Commercial-st. All cars parked on Wisconsin-ave. from Main to Walnut-sts. must be on an angle and not left there more than two hours. On the other streets cars must be parked parallel to the walk.

Mrs. Helen K. Stuart, alderman from the First ward introduced an ordinance prohibiting parking on Lake-dr from E. Wisconsin-ave. along the lakeshore to Kimberly park at the extreme north end, claiming that the privilege is being abused especially at night. Many of the aldermen however, held that the city should invite people to view the lakeshore. Mayor George E. Sande appointed Aldermen and Alderman Freeman to investigate the situation and to submit a report. A time limit for parking on Lake-dr may be recommended.

FAVORS NEW COMMITTEE

In connection with traffic discussions, Mayor Sande suggested organization of a traffic regulation committee. The council voted unanimously to appropriate from income taxes $1,500 to purchase additional instruments of the two high school bands, as recommended by Prof. H. M. Mals, director. A resolution, presented by Mrs. Stuart, asking that extra copies of council proceedings be struck off and presented to each member of the council a few days after each meeting was tabled. The council voted pay to the expenses of Louis Rauech, chief of the fire department, on his trip to Toronto, Canada, to attend the international convention of fire chiefs.

Alderman H. H. Schummen, chairman of the parks and public buildings committee, reported that work on remodeling the municipal bathhouse for the baskette system has been completed and that more than 500 people can be accommodated there at one time now. An ordinance creating the board of review, composed of the mayor, city clerk and treasurer, was passed. The board will meet the first Monday in July of each year.

A communication from A. F. Schroeder, who now is in California, was received. In front of his home on S. Commercial-st, there is a tree a limb of which extends over the street. Mr. Schroeder asked that the tree be trimmed and as much of the tree be left standing on the terrace as possible. The committee on streets was instructed to take the matter up with him when he returns. The same committee will investigate a similar situation at the corner of Olive and S. Commercial-st. The length of the term of office of the city health officer was questioned by Mrs. Stuart. Attorney H. Hugo Keller, of Appleton, acting for City Attorney John O'Leary, stated that the city health officer is elected for two years under the charter. However, he said he investigated the matter as applicable to city home ruling.

A sidewalk at the corner of Water and High-sts was reported in dangerous condition. Bills amounting to $22,346.82 were authorized. Monthly reports of the police, poor commission and justices of the peace were presented and accepted, and petitions for walks on the west side of Sixth-st between Hewitt and Green-st and west side of Seventh-st between Hewitt and Nicolet-blvd were granted.

MENASHA SENIORS AWARDED DIPLOMAS

Annual Graduation Exercises Are Conducted Wednesday Evening

Menasha—Diplomas were granted to 35 seniors at the graduating exercises of Menasha high school in Butte des Morts school gymnasium Wednesday evening. The certificates were presented by Superintendent J. E. Kitowski.

The Hon. Oliver L. O'Boyle, who delivered the commencement address, urged the graduating students to further education, choosing some line of work that appeals to them. He stressed perseverance as the element most important to success in the world and stated that a firm believer in the words of God is essential to development in life.

The program was opened by the Menasha high school band, and other musical numbers were included in the program by the Boys' and Girls glee clubs. Rev. A. Gordon Fowkes, rector of St. Thomas Episcopal church, delivered the invocation and read the benediction.

The salutatory address was presented by Clara Landis, and Ethel Lieble gave the valedictory speech. Following the address by O'Boyle, the diplomas were presented by the superintendent.

Scholarship medals, earned by up-perclassmen throughout the school year, were awarded by Principal R. J. Fink. The chemistry award was given to Ethel Lieble, valedictorian, who also was presented a medal for scholarship in latin. The English medals were presented to Alice Langer, a sophomore; Alice Strong, a junior; and Dorothy Tuchscherer, a member of the graduating class. The Geometry trophy was awarded to Edith Davis, a junior.

Lucile Pierce was awarded the Nicolet award, given to the editor of the high school year book. Edmund Webster received the medal awarded to the best senior boy athlete and a gold medal for declamatory work went to Marion Kudg.

Famous Hollywood Dogs To Get Real Vacations

BY JESSIE HENDERSON (Copyright, 1930, by Const. Press.) Hollywood dogs are planning summer vacations. The climate is a trifle difficult for these talented canines during the summer, even though "the nights are cool." Anyway, "Rip," owned by Joseph Cawthorn, is going to Alaska on the John Barrymore yacht. The big police dog lost several pounds worrying over the disappearance of "Toby," Persian cat, and needs to recuperate.

"Vic," Harrison, great Dane owned by William Harrison, the actor, is already on vacation at Santa Monica beach. Young "Vic" is about the size of a yearling calf and still growing. Her favorite diet is lemon pie.

"Scotty," Scotch terrier owned by Doris Lloyd, will spend most of the summer at Beverly Crest as the guest of George K. Arthur. "Scotty" could go to San Francisco, but he prefers the Arthurs swimming pool. Marjorie White's "Whoosie" is all set for a grand time on the Malibu sands. Miss White found a flea-bitten pup on the curb outside her home where it had been tossed by a hit-and-run motor car. She took the subject "victim," which looked like nothing but bad news, to a veterinary who, washing off the mud and fleas, went into raptures over the dog's perfect markings. "Pure-bred Alredale," said the vet. At Malibu, "Whoosie" will doubtless meet "Duke," the great Dane owned by Clara Bow.

"Rita," Boston bull belonging to Fred Scott, has been promised trips in the high Sierras. Slobberchop," great Dane owned by Gary Cooper, will risk the mer away at the Cooper ranch in Montana.

And the owners? Oh, they will work at the studios. That's a dog's life.

Menasha—Dr. V. F. Marshall, Appleton, was the principal speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Menasha Rotary club at Hotel Menasha Wednesday noon. Dr. Marshall's subject was The Romance of Surgery, and a history of the subject from the beginning up to the present was presented.

Howley Shifts Red Batting Order But Giants Win

MACKS, SENATORS AGAIN WIN IN A. L.; RUTH GETS HOMER

Harry Seibold Given Trouncing by Cubs; Sam Jones Loses 9th

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DAN HOWLEY, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has become one of the leading experimenters of the National League as well as one of its leading traders, and has prospects of good results if he can mold the material he now has into a co-ordinated baseball team.

Howley shook his lineup again yesterday, putting Pat Crawford in the lineup and making Bob Meusel lead off man. The result was good enough to produce 12 hits but not a victory. Their opponents, the New York Giants, got but 12 hits, but six of them came in succession from the first six batters in the opening inning and started the Giants off to a 6-1 lead and an 8 to 5 victory.

The hits total made by the Reds and Giants, big as they were, added small when the Chicago Cubs got into action and they trounced the Pirates 13 to 10. The Cubs hit 20 times for 34 bases, getting six doubles, a triple and two homers and gave Harry Seibold and his two successors a bad time of it.

The Cubs finished only two games behind Brooklyn as the Robins literally threw away a game to the Pittsburgh Pirates by a 12 to 6 score. The Robins made eight errors, most of them on bad throws, and nearly every home run meant a damaging run.

The result left the Pirates only a game behind the St. Louis Cardinals, who lost to Philadelphia, 2 to 1.

A. L. GAMES ARE CLOSE
The American league reversed the procedure of its elder rival completely and produced four tight battles, three of them going ten innings apiece, and left the positions of the leaders unaltered. The leading Philadelphia Athletics beat out the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 3, in the only nine inning contest as Sam Gray, formerly the star of the Brownie mound staff, lost his ninth straight game.

Washington, in second place, scored three runs in the tenth to beat out the Detroit Tigers, 11 to 8, after Detroit had scored six runs in the last three regular innings to gain a tie.

The Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees remained in third and fourth places respectively, the victims of upsets. The Yankees dropped an 8 to 7 decision to the Chicago White Sox as Johnny Kern followed the example set for him a few innings earlier by Babe Ruth and won the game with a home run after two were out in the ninth inning. The Babe had tied the count in the eighth with his eighteenth homer.

In the year, Ed Morris of the Boston Red Sox proved better in the long run than Willis Hudlin of Cleveland and gave Boston a 5 to 4 victory in another ten inning duel.

OTTO'S MANAGER MUST EXPLAIN STRIB RUNOUT
Chicago — (P) — Ed Stevenson, manager of Otto Von Porat, stiff-punching Norwegian heavyweight, had a date with the Illinois State Athletic commission today, to explain why he changed his mind about letting Otto fight William Stribling in the Chicago stadium, June 16.

Yesterday when the contracts were offered Stevenson refused to sign, and according to Matchmaker Lewis, said he had been advised by "someone on the outside," to refuse the bout.

The commission became interested when the "someone on the outside" angle was presented and asked Stevenson to come to its office and reveal the identity of the influential outsider.

LEWIS, SONNENBERG GRUNT AT MILWAUKEE
Milwaukee — (P) — Ed Lewis, former Wisconsin boy, today stood as an opponent against Gus Sonnenberg, dominant to the world's heavyweight wrestling title in a match here at the Auditorium, June 18. The boys were signed yesterday.

BENNY BASS MEETS ANDERSON, JUNE 10
Milwaukee — (P) — Benny Bass, defending junior lightweight boxing champion, is expected here Friday for training for his bout with Ed Anderson, June 10. Promoter Tom Anderson said today, Tall Littman, who is paired with Gary Leach, will be the semi-windup on June 10.

Valley League Gossip

It looks like anybody's pennant in the Valley league. Kim-Little Chute, now occupying the cellar, is only three games behind Nee-Menasha at the top of the heap. Even a single defeat shakes up the percentage table.

The "wolves" are barking at Kim-Little Chute. The paper-making fans are used to a winner and the pace that Lamers & Co. is setting this year has them hostile and verbal rascals are numerous at the games.

Green Bay finally broke into the win column by throwing Kim-Little Chute for a 16 to 9 loss. There is good material at the "Bay" but as yet the players haven't shown much signs of a "one for all" spirit.

Among the casualties at last Sunday's Appleton-Wisconsin Rapids mix was the official scorekeeper. The count was 15-14 in favor of the Collegians and the "marker" cramped his arm keeping track of the bingles.

Green Bay pulled one for the books against Kaukauna. Chusman's triple got two singles and a triple in a row yet scored no runs. One man was nipped at home, and the others left by the wayside down along the third base station.

Valley league fans don't waste much sympathy on the umpires. Wenzlaff who was working behind the log at Little Chute last Sunday took the count from a foul tip and the spectators seemed to think it was quite a joke.

The pitchers got "theirs" plenty in the week-end games as the players seemed suddenly to find their batting eyes. Slabmen came and went regularly in all of the games between a barrage of home runs and other wallpops.

Pete Lepine, the veteran Fond du Lac umpire, is having a good year

behind the bat calling 'em. Lepine knows his baseball like a book and the players respect him. This helps him a lot in easing his officiating duties.

Skell, the Kim-Little Chute first sacker, never gives quits. He is in there bubbling over with pep from first to last inning and it doesn't make any difference if his club is six runs behind or the same number ahead.

The team that beats Wisconsin Rapids will win the bunting. That's the way the experts are figuring the Valley race. The "Rapids" have an evenly balanced machine and there doesn't seem to be a weakness at any position.

Bakoleky is no longer a jinx to the Appleton club. Last season, the Wisconsin Rapids Polo only had to throw his club on the field and the Collegians were beaten. This year Kotak & Co. have made his life miserable.

"Skimmer" Becker is showing lots of class in the sun garden for Green Bay. Over the week-end, he boosted his batting average several notches besides getting away with some circling catches out where the long grass grows.

When Fred Nixon, the Nee-Menasha speed ball king, has his submarine ball working right, there isn't much chance beating him. Nixon is taking his hurling more serious than ever this year and is a much improved slabit.

Les Smith had a funny box score tabulation in the Kaukauna-Nee-Menasha game. He had a perfect day at bat, getting one out of one, yet he dented the rubber for three of the Kaws' runs. Smith drew a couple of walks.

"Boots" Lamers has returned to the Kim-Little Chute battle front. The veteran isn't feeling right but has stepped into action as an outfielder. In his day "Boots" was rated as one of the best ball players in the valley.

Lack of pitching seems to be the trouble with the Papermakers. Efforts to strengthen the hurling post have been launched and it is quite probable that a new "chucker" will be footing the mound against the Pals, Sunday.

"Shorty" Zuidmiller is playing a vastly improved brand of ball at the short field for Green Bay this season. What's more the youngster is hitting the ball hard and he has been coming through nicely in the pinches.

After a two-game slump, "Shorty" Wenzel, the Kaukauna backstop, champion swatman in 1929, has begun to tickle the apple again. Against Nee-Menasha, the peppery backstop came through with two hits in three times to bat.

Valley league attendance reports continue to be very encouraging. Wisconsin Rapids is going over big while the baseball "revival" at Appleton is breaking all records. Nee-Menasha turnstiles are also clicking lively.

Green Bay plays at home Sunday with Wisconsin Rapids as its guests. Kim-Little Chute is booked for an engagement at Nee-Menasha while Kaukauna and Appleton will resume their diamond feud at the Collegians' home park.

CLAIMS DUBBED DRIVE 'NEGLIGENCE'; COURT WILL NOW DECIDE IT
Little Rock, Ark. — (P) — Golfers pricked up their ears here today when they learned that the courts have been called upon to decide if a dubbed drive constitutes "negligence."

Olaf H. Kyster took the matter to Pulaski circuit court, filing suit for $556 against Dr. F. F. Woods as damages for injury when he was struck by the latter's golf ball in February while both were playing at the Sylvan Hills country club.

As Mr. Kyster sees it Dr. Woods "negligently drove his ball to the left, thereby causing him deep pain."

Notre Dame Coaches Assemble, But Why?

BY LAWRENCE PERRY

NEW YORK — (CPA) — Notre Dame-trained coaches from far and near have been faring to So. Bend for a convalesce with Knute Rockne, so the writer learned today.

Is this merely a social forerunning? Is this a visit of Rockne pupils with the object of celebrating the great coach's return to action? Or, again, is it some post graduate coaching course?

To all these questions the answer is no. Just why Adam Walsh and Chet Wynne and Harry Mehre and other gridiron teachers who, in their undergraduate days, drank of the Notre Dame football font, were summoned to their alma mater has not been explained and probably — for the time being — will remain without the assignment of official reason.

MRS. PARDUE FAVORED TO COP TULSA MEET

Tulsa, Okla. — (P) — Qualifying scores of Mrs. Dorothy Klotz Pardue, of Sioux City, Ia., the medalist, and other leaders in the women's Trans-Mississippi golf tournament, for the most part have proved an accurate barometer of their tourney performances.

Mrs. Pardue still remained a heavy favorite today as third round play began, the result of her defeat yesterday of deliberate little Mary Elizabeth Ford, 16, of Kansas City.

Regis Lenchy, southpaw pitcher, sent to Hartford by Toledo in the American association, was returned, as the Eastern league club claimed he reported with a "stiff" arm.

Green Bay plays at home Sunday with Wisconsin Rapids as its guests. Kim-Little Chute is booked for an engagement at Nee-Menasha while Kaukauna and Appleton will resume their diamond feud at the Collegians' home park.

He Won't Give Up

While Lipton and tea are closely connected, so likewise are Lipton and sailboats. Sir Thomas Lipton, above, noted British tea baron and yacht racer, has shipped his new racing sloop, Shamrock V, to America to try to win back the America's cup, internationally famous yachting trophy. Sir Thomas is past 80 years of age but he still gets a kick out of boat racing, in spite of his repeated losses to American defenders in recent years.

AL SIMMONS WILL RETURN TO MACKS

Philadelphia — (P) — Al Simmons, hard-hitting left fielder of the Philadelphia Athletics, who has been in a hospital for several days with an injured knee, will join the team in Chicago Saturday. After removing the bandages from his knee last night, physicians said Simmons was in fine shape and could leave the hospital Friday. Simmons announced he would board the first train for Chicago.

Jimmy Dykes, star third baseman, who also was left behind when the Athletics left on their western trip will probably be out of the game for two weeks. He is suffering from a stomach ailment. Physicians said he would have to remain in the hospital at least ten days.

BADGER FROSH 4TH IN BIG TEN MEET

Madison — (P) — Coach Guy Sundt's University of Wisconsin freshmen track team finished fourth in the annual telegraphic meet to determine the first year track champions of the Big Ten, according to official returns received here today.

The Badger frosh scored 30 points, trailing Illinois, which won with 75, Indiana with 53, and Ohio, which scored 49. Purdue was fifth with 21 and Minnesota sixth with 11. Michigan, Iowa, Chicago and Northwestern freshmen did not compete.

COLONELS DEFEAT SAINTS TWICE AND INCREASE A. A. LEAD

Toledo rallies in seventh and gains decision over Milwaukee

CHICAGO.—The Louisville Colonels are rapidly ruining what last week was a good close race in the American association.

The Colonels have been out in front almost from the start, but were within reach of the next four clubs most of the way. Today they were still in the lead, but the race was much longer. Following a double victory over St. Paul, its closest competitor, yesterday which boosted their lead to four and one-half games.

Wilkey Moore, Saint slinker-ball artist, was the victim in the first game, bowing by 9 to 4, while Slim Harris was beaten, 8 to 5, in the second contest.

Mike Kelley's Minneapolis Millers featuring the three E. Smiths, Ernie, Earl and Elmer, staged a rousing finish against Indianapolis but failed by a run and were beaten by 8 to 7. Mike Cvangros pulled himself out of a hole in great shape during the ninth inning rally, fanning Charlie High for the final out.

Toledo's eighth inning rally was good enough to gain a 4 to 4 decision over Milwaukee. They were tied at three-half until the Hens, aided by Benton's error, got started on Charlie Robertson. Conlan featured the rally with a steal of home. Bevo Schourveau continued to hit sensationally, his home run and double accounting for three Toledo runs. The large Connolly started for Toledo, fanned for a pinch bat, and then fell in the sixth. O'Brien pitched two innings before he gave way to Rabb, who was credited for the victory.

proceeds "Pea Ridge" Day, pitched, moved and yelled Kansas City to a 16 Park win over Columbus. Day held the Senators to seven hits, and got at himself, including a double which went over two runs.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

HARVARD and Yale first met in rowing 78 years ago. Of all the colleges in the east, Harvard and Massachusetts Tech are the most advantageously located for rowing, with the beautiful Charles river following through their front yards. The Navy training course, the Severn, often kicks up rough water. Yale has a beautiful practice course for the crews on the Housatonic, but the oarsmen have to ride six or seven miles by bus to get there. Oh, well the Yale football team pays for the buses. Princeton has a wonderful rowing course on Lake Carnegie, calm and peaceful compared to the Severn. Rusty Callow has been taking his Penn crewers over to the Delaware, an hour by bus, though the Schuylkill is close at hand. Columbia oarsmen have to ride in the subway to get to the Harlem river or Hudson. Then they have to dodge coal barges. Cornell finds Lake Cayuga rough and cold in the spring. And the Syracuse shells find the going good on the Seneca, after the ice has melted.

Night Baseball Gets Approval Of Ball Clubs

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS

Copyright, 1930.

Chicago.—Night baseball now has been on trial long enough to be termed a moderate success. Eleven minor league clubs have committed themselves to give the innovation a tryout, this season, and it is certain that with such encouragement, electrical manufacturing concerns will endeavor to improve the illumination until it is thoroughly satisfactory to both players and fans.

Sec Taylor, the Des Moines sports authority, who first viewed Lee Keyser's experiment in the Iowa City with considerable doubt, is well sold on the idea. His opinion of night baseball is:

"That players can see the ball at all times and make no more errors than in daylight. That the batting is just as robust and if any player is handicapped by the lights it is the pitcher. No ball batted on the Des Moines field has gone high enough to be out of sight unless it passed out of the park. Players on both the home and visiting teams are very enthusiastic over the way the night games are working out and the fans are well satisfied.

The writer is told that outfielders are particularly like night games because under the artificial beams they are spared from playing a sun field and at no time are bothered by light shining directly in their eyes. Nor do the players believe changing from night to day games will create any handicap.

The first few games played at Des Moines showed a tremendous increase in attendance; even after the initial contest which drew many curious in addition to the regular fans.

Deacatur in the Three Eye league also is satisfied with its night play, although the illuminating system uses, there is said to cast serious shadows back of second base and in both right and center fields. But that, engineers believe, can be remedied.

Night games soon will be inaugurated by Sacramento in the Pacific Coast league and Indianapolis in the American association. Houston of the Texas league plans to start night games by July 1. Other clubs who will play at night are: Montreal of the International, Omaha of the Western league; Lincoln of the Nebraska State league and Joplin, Mo., Jackson, Miss., and Sioux City, Iowa.

While the night games were gaining a foothold in the minors, Sam Breardon of the St. Louis Cardinals won several converts to his Sunday doubleheader idea among National league club owners. The Cardinals and Chicago Cubs recently played to a crowd of 31,000 and it was said that only for threatening weather it would have been necessary to rope off the field.

Attendance in the major leagues is holding up tremendously well and the Chicago White Sox are due for a boom among the cash customers if Smead Powell Jolley, the high priced outfielder from the Pacific coast continues his wild hitting. After a weak start Jolley suddenly found the range.

POISONOUS CHICK MASKES SOLD IN STATE, BELIEVE
Letters Reporting Practice Received by Agricultural Department
Madison—If the many letters regularly received during the spring season at the feed laboratories of the department of agriculture and markets are to be believed, then a lot of poisonous chick starting and chick growing masks are being sold in Wisconsin.

These letters from poultrymen telling of very high mortality among flocks, are accompanied by parcels of feed suspected of containing poisonous materials. These suspected samples are given to healthy chickens as the only source of feed to determine if there is any basis for the suspicions. In some cases, according to the statements made, the chickens should have been very ill or dead the morning after the first feeding. No feeds so tested in the feed control laboratories have ever indicated that they contained substances harmful to the chickens.

It is evident, therefore, that these poultrymen have not recognized the sources of the high mortalities. Many of them do not suspect the actual presence of diseases in the flocks. This is especially true if they are using some so-called disease preventive in which they have faith because of the lavish testimonials.

Poultrymen experiencing heavy losses who are not able to determine the cause of their mortalities, should immediately consult their veterinarian, or submit a chicken for examination to the college of agriculture, Madison. It should be evident that time spent in sending samples of feed for analyses could be used to better advantage in taking steps to check the spread of disease.

HOLSTEIN BREEDERS TO MEET AT RIVER FALLS
Holstein breeders of Pierce and St. Croix counties will be hosts to the Holstein breeders of Wisconsin at the 1930 summer picnic of the state association. This event will be held on the Normal school grounds, River Falls, Saturday, June 22.

Breeders of St. Croix and Pierce counties are planning to exhibit 75 to 100 head of Holsteins. The chamber of commerce at River Falls has raised $100 in premium money to be offered as prizes to the exhibitors. Prof. George C. Humphrey, University of Wisconsin, will act as judge.

Rudolph Schaefer, Appleton, a member of the board of directors of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, will give a demonstration of the manner and method of inspection and classification of herds and recognition of sires.

COLEMAN LIBEL ACTION ENDED AT STEVENS POINT
Stevens Point—Closing of the controversy which developed in Stevens Point municipal affairs last fall when formal charges were preferred by the city council against H. W. Coleman, Jr., then city manager, is seen in announcement that a $100,000 libel action instituted by Coleman against the four councilmen, who voted for his dismissal, will be dropped.

Coleman was formally relieved of his duties Jan. 14. Subsequently he started action against B. W. Dacena, Frank A. Derezinski, M. Donemeyer and A. E. Larson.

SELFISHNESS MAY CORRECT HEADLIGHT EVIL IN WISCONSIN

Motorists Urged to Secure Lights That Will Show Them the Road

MADISON — By appealing to motorists, selfishness, Wisconsin is succeeding in eliminating from its highway thousands of potential accidents by correcting the headlights of their automobiles.

The headlight evil, which is known all over the country, is responsible for at least 10 per cent of fatal accidents, according to the National Conference on Street Highway Safety. All over Wisconsin, 150 headlight testing stations under license of the Wisconsin Industrial Commission and manned by trained operators who receive instruction at the state university, are testing automobile lights and making them safe for the highways.

Acting on the fact that compulsion arouses resentment the state is trying to persuade motorists to get good lights that show them the road rather than to force them to get rid of glare.

SAFETY SALESMANSHIP

"Selling the people something which appeals to them, namely, self-protection and comfort in night driving, rather than asking them or forcing them to do something for the protection of the other motorist is a new method of attack on the headlight problem," says Chester S. Ricker, president of a national headlight testing service in Wisconsin.

"No particular headlight or design will ever correct or eliminate glare from our roads," he continues. "There is no panacea in the headlight. Headlights made during the past four years are all right if they are used and kept in the condition intended by the car and lamp designers."

But they require intelligent service at regular intervals, Ricker

CAR ASSESSMENT CARDS COMING IN TOO SLOWLY

Gathering in auto assessment cards is almost as elusive a job as corralling wind-blown scraps of paper, the city assessor has just about decided. Only a small number of cards have been returned, despite the fact that May 1 was the official deadline.

Discovering that a house-to-house canvas to assess cars was unprofitable, the plan of sending out post-cards to the owners of machines was inaugurated. However, this system will yield even less information if the cards are filed behind the clock or thrown in the waste basket instead of being returned to the city assessor's office at once.

says, and he is of the opinion that the average headlamp never gets attention until a bulb burns out or some other trouble crops up, and that few lamps stand up through a year without needed service.

POOR LAMPS SLOWS TRAFFIC

The effect of poor lamps slows up traffic as well as causing accidents. According to Sidney J. Williams of the National Safety Council, a driver going from Chicago northward to the Wisconsin line passed four lines of cars in 100 miles creeping along at a rate of 15 or 20 miles an hour. At the head of each of these lines was a car with broken or weak headlamps. This car could not go faster because its lamps gave insufficient light to make faster speed safe.

Since last fall more than 200,000 cars in the state have undergone examinations at the "light filling stations." At these stations the car owner gets prompt head and tail light service. The testing equipment is a gauge, just like the scales in a butcher shop, to protest the motorist and guide the service man. Set standards must be met by all lamps testing and should any adjustments be needed, the motorists can have them done at the testing stations by capable hands at a small cost.

BIRDS APPEARED EARLY THIS SPRING

If They Didn't, M'Kinley School Pupils Are More Observing

Either the early spring brought an earlier migration of birds, or pupils of McKinley junior high school were more observing this year, for up to May 14 a total of 52 birds had been sighted by pupils, against 31 at the same time last year. In 1927 only six birds were listed in 1928 only 12, and in 1929 there were seven. Statistics on birds sighted in the spring are kept on a chart in Miss Mary Rogers' room.

The first robin was reported on Feb. 21. In 1929 the first robin was listed on Feb. 10, in 1927 on Feb. 15, in 1926, Feb. 7, and in 1925 on Feb. 14.

Birds seen in this vicinity up to May 14 include the robin, downy woodpecker, blue jay, crow, evening grosbeak, junco, redwinged blackbird, white breasted nuthatch, blue bird, herring gull, redheaded woodpecker, speckled starling, kingfisher, meadow lark, chicken hawk, wild goose, flicker, grackle, wren, goldfinch, snipe, ruby crowned kinglet, song sparrow, purple martin, cowbird, barn swallow, sapsucker, boblink, wild swan, cat bird, light brown crane, golden-winged warbler, brown creeper, white crowned sparrow, cedar wax-wing, phoebe, brown thrasher, Bonaparte gull, Baltimore oriole, chipping sparrow, bald eagle, yellow rail, woodcock, yellow bird, sandpiper, bank swallow, black and white warbler, screech owl, ruby throated hummingbird, tree swallow and English sparrow.

BEG PARDON

The Post-Crescent on May 31 carried a news story reporting the arrest of Henry Kerscher at Kaukauna for drunkenness. This story was in error, as Anton Kerscher is the man who was arrested. The mistake resulted from an error on the part of the Kaukauna police department. Henry Kerscher, a former resident of Kaukauna, who now lives in Chicago, was in no way connected with the case.

Oldsmobile's ease of handling and quick responsiveness make it a wonderful car in traffic. Every control operates so smoothly and effectively. Clutch, brakes, gear-shift, and steering—all work with delightful ease. A touch on the throttle, and the car flashes away as the signal light changes. And it pulls down to a smooth, silent stop immediately, when the signal's against you. As for parking, just try it yourself. Pick a restricted space at the curb—and see how easy it is to fit Oldsmobile into that space. Then, try Oldsmobile on the road. COSTE PLANS AIR RACE OVER ROUGH ATLANTIC WATERS

Noted French Pilot Will Follow Trail on Which Many Were Lost

New York (AP)—A pilot since he was 17, Capt. Dieudonne Coste will dare the dangers of the Atlantic in the most difficult feat of his 15 years of flying.

The French war ace plans to fly westward from Paris to New York, a project that has cost many lives and in which he himself failed last year.

Success will climax a flying career that had its beginning when Louis Bleriot made the first flight across the English channel in 1909 and the ambition of Coste, a 16-year-old engineering student, to become an aviator.

He won his pilot's license a year later, but the war sent him into the conflict where he accounted for five enemy ships and seven balloons.

An international hero, his fame rests on exploits in the last four years, starting in 1926 when Capt. Rignot and he set a world's distance record in a 3,313-mile non-stop flight from Paris into Persia.

Late the next year, with Joseph Lebrun, he started an aerial odyssey from Paris down the west coast of Africa, across the south Atlantic to America, and eventually to South America, Asia and Australia.

Except for crossing the

APPLICANTS CONFER WITH U. S. OFFICER

C. D. Berg, St. Paul, federal naturalization officer, was at the courthouse Wednesday morning holding conferences with applicants for naturalization. Fourteen applicants will be examined at the semi-annual hearing before Judge Edgar V. Werner in circuit court next Monday morning. Berg, who was at the office of Sydney M. Shannon, clerk of courts, where applications for citizenship must be paid, was interviewing candidates, taking depositions, and disposing of other advance routine business.

At a recent exhibit, of the Worshipful Company of Gold and Silver Wire Drawers, in England, a sample of gold wire drawn so fine that 3500 yards weighed only one ounce, was exhibited.

Pacific by ship the round-the-world tour was made in flight.

Last year, with Maurice Bellonte, he attempted the Paris-New York flight, but turned back west of the Azores and landed after flying 3,100 miles. Head winds had forced them back.

Two world record performances followed, a non-stop flight of 4,048.58 miles to Manchuria, and a closed circuit record of 4,937 miles in 53 1/2 hours.

Spurred by the arrangements of Capt. Kingsford-Smith, Australian war ace, to fly from Ireland to New York, Coste has hurried test flights on his tri-motored ship to race the Australian across the ocean.

There have been no successful heavier-than-air craft flights across the north Atlantic from continent to continent in a westerly direction without stop. The Bremen flight began in Ireland and ended at Greenley Island.

Largest Business Drop Reported By Paper Mills

A survey of Appleton industrial and manufacturing plants indicates that some lines of business are slightly below last year. Practically as many men are being employed in every trade as last year and there are definite indications of a noticeable pickup in trade by early fall.

The most noticeable decrease in business occurs in the paper mill trade. Here, paper mill managers say, the decrease is between 8 and 15 per cent. A decrease of 8 per cent is noted in writing paper lines while in other paper lines the decreases run to 15 per cent, with the heaviest falling off in the wrapping paper line.

However, the paper mill men say, the decrease is so small that it has not been necessary to make drastic cuts in the number of men employed. In practically all of the mills full crews are being maintained and manufacturing operations are at capacity. Present indications are that by early fall the decrease will have been wiped out and there is a good possibility before the end of the year arrives there will be an increase shown over the last year.

One branch of the paper mill business, that of the paper specialty lines, is an exception to the general rule because it shows an increase over last year. Men engaged in this line said that they are employing about 10 per cent more men than last year, that orders were well ahead.

BUILDING TRADE OFF
A slight falling off has been noticed in the building trade, although some contractors claim there are just as many men employed in building work as there were at the same time last year. One of the major projects, construction of the new Irving Zuelke building at the corner of College-ave and Oneida-st., has done much to keep the building business near the level of last year from an employment standpoint.

There are fewer homes being built this summer and fewer improvements and additions, although the contractors and building supply dealers say they think this slight decrease also will be overcome before the summer ends.

Considerable road building throughout the state is caring for many men who otherwise might not have employment.

Another bright feature on Appleton's business horizon is the reopening of the old steel tube company. This plant is being put in readiness to start manufacturing at an early date. The new company is to be known as the Drawn Steel Tube company and it is capitalized for $25,000. W. B. Markham, former Chicago man, heads the company and is in charge of the work now in operation at the plant. When the plant reopens he expects to employ 25 men to start with.

SEEK 6 MEN FOR GUARD COMPANY

Co. D127th Infantry Goes to Camp Douglas July 5 This Year

There now are six vacancies in Co. D, 127th Infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, according to Capt. Clyde P. Schroeder, commanding officer, and young men over 18 years of age who wish to join may do so by calling at the armory Monday evening's. Monday is drill night for the company.

Men who join the company now will receive about four weeks preliminary training before the unit goes to Camp Douglas on Saturday July 5, for a 15 day encampment. Members of the company will begin firing machine guns and pistols for record qualification next Sunday.

During the period at Camp Douglas the guards will go through gun drills, morning, and have the afternoon off for football games or jaunts among the rock ledges that are numerous at camp. The feature of this year's trip is a two day maneuver with artillery units on the Camp McCoy reservation. The guards will go to McCoy by train and then "rough it" for two days, during which a theoretical battle will be fought.

FIND MORE CONTAGION AMONG SCHOOL PEOPLE

The schools will close this year with more contagion among school children than has ever been the case before according to the school nurses. Four and five new cases of measles and mumps are developing every day, and there is a great prevalence of colds.

The reason for the continued sway of measles and mumps, the nurses state, is that parents continue to send children with colds to school before they have determined whether the ailment is a mere cold or the forerunner of some contagious disease. In instances such as this the child with a cold which is really a symptom of measles or mumps exposes his classmates to the disease before it develops to the point where it is apparent.

CRUDE RUBBER IS LOWER IN PRICE, HIGHER IN STOCK

Raw Material Situation Looks Favorable to Tire Manufacturers

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
Washington. —(CPA)—Crude rubber prices are lower today than at any time since February, 1922. Stocks are extremely high at London, Liverpool and New York. On its face, this would seem to indicate that the raw material situation of the tire and rubber manufacturing companies was extremely advantageous.

More automobiles are now in use and wearing out tires than ever before. There are around 26,000,000 cars in this country alone. These machines will require replacements within the next year, in all probability. The number of tires to be replaced is problematical, but certainly 50,000,000 casings would be a conservative estimate for this demand. The automobile industry now is increasing steadily in production and while it is not likely that total production will reach the point touched in 1929, some 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 tires probably will be required for original equipment. The sales opportunities are there for the tire manufacturers. Cotton textiles used in tires are not high.

Rubber is low and yet few manufacturers would be willing to forecast the volume of profits. These depend in no small part on judging accurately what the price of rubber will do.

CALL TAPPING HOLIDAY
In the straits settlements, the main source of supply, a tapping holiday was declared in May. No tires were supposed to be tapped in that month so demand could make progress in catching up with supply. Some experts declare the experiment was a failure. Officials of the department of commerce here say it is too soon to determine its success or failure. The amount of rubber which will come on the market in the next month or so will indicate whether the tapping holiday was observed or not.

It is known that most of the large companies observed the restrictions, but about half the world's rubber is produced by the independent small planters, with holdings of about 10 acres each. These are usually Malays, Chinese or other eastern peoples and they seem indifferent to price, so far as production is concerned. It is explained that they have to sell no matter what the price. Tapping restrictions can hardly be said to apply generally to them. In fact when the price is low, the small planter simply collects and sells more rubber.

STOCKS ARE HIGHER
Rubber stocks now are higher than ever and are still piling up. The low price means that a smaller amount of reclaimed rubber will be used and this will aid in consumption demand. The exports from Malaya for the last week, which were the first that might be expected to show any change as a result of the holiday, were about on the usual level.

These factors appear to indicate a continuation of low prices, but rubber manufacturers have counted on similar situations before and suddenly found that they could not fill their demands at a low price, whereas they had to sell their tires in competition with other concerns who had made tires from low priced rubber.

Average stocks of tires are lower than for this date last year. This is especially noticeable in the stocks of the smaller dealers who carry fewer than 100 tires at a time. The same is true of water-proof rubber footwear, of which there are about 5,750,000 pairs in dealers' hands as compared with 6,015,171 a year ago, or 253 pairs per dealer.

The difficulty in restricting the production of crude rubber lies in the fact that expenses of keeping the plantations cleared continue, whether rubber is being produced or not. It requires only a few weeks of inattention for a plantation to revert to jungle.

Rubber has had perhaps as wide a range of price as any commodity. As recently as 1909, rubber sold for $3 a pound. That was when the main supply was wild rubber. Current quotations for smoked rubber sheets are below 14 cents.

What Scientists Are Learning

SCIENTIST, WIFE "HUNT HEADS" IN ALBANIAN TRIBES

Couple Finds Plenty of Thrills Among Fighting Mountaineers

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)
Cambridge, Mass. —(AP)—College men who seek adventure find it in a surprising field, anthropology, the once dry-as-dust study of historical remains.

Anthropology is tame no longer. It sends young men into jungles, deserts, polar ice fields, the lines between fighting tribesmen and among quarrelling mountaineers. It studies living men, and usually the fightingest kinds.

One such anthropological trek has just been finished in the mountains of Albania by Dr. C. S. Coon of Peabody museum, Harvard university, his wife, and Frederick Farnsworth.

One of their Albanian hosts, a head of the tribe of Dibra, learning that the anthropologist could shoot, introduced him to a parlor game with rifles. He would shout:

"Long live America."

Coon thereupon would shoot a clip of ammunition through the window. That done the American scholar would shout:

"Long live Albania."

And the chieftain would shoot a clip through the window.

The chieftain invited the expedition to remain six months, and early the next morning brought their horses saddled for departure. He had received overnight word of impending attack. More than 15 men were killed in a feud before the King's guard arrived and restored quiet.

Mrs. Coon found Albanian hosts delighting them in rolling cigarettes, tossing them to her pupils as many as 15 or 20 in front of her which she was expected to smoke.

One night when the two Americans were guests of the Prince of Mirdita, the least accessible tribe, the entire household of about 25 insisted on tucking her in bed. Then all, including retainers and servants, shook her hand good night.

Among the Catholic mountaineers, the expedition was entertained in houses, but among the Mohammedans they slept in single room tents. These as many as 50 men would sleep on the floor about them. Mrs. Coon one night was awakened by a man chopping firewood three inches from her husband's head.

The Coons gathered statistics about Albanian racial characteristics, which will be studied in quiet at Harvard.

Gendarmes assigned by the Albanian government assisted. If Dr. Coon wanted to measure 20 men of a certain locality, the

Temple Ruins In Bolivia Bare Former Civilization

Potsdam. —(AP)—Of all ruined prehistoric cities "half as old as time," the most ancient is undoubtedly Tihuanacu in Bolivia, on the banks of Lake Titicaca, where stand the remains of the great pre-Inca sun temple Kalasasaya, relic of a civilization that flourished many centuries before Christ.

Dr. Rolf Mueller of the Potsdam Observatory who recently returned to Germany from Bolivia and Peru, has submitted to the Prussian Academy of Sciences a report in which he describes the results of two years' research with Professor Arguedas promptly bought in 29, even though some of the men had to walk two days to get there. The gendarmes are picked men, natives, with English officers. Since their advent bandits are infrequent.

Already the studies indicate an unusual relation between light and left handedness and Albanian head shapes.

PLANTS, TOO, CAN TAKE ON THAT MODISH TAN

Rochester, Minn. —(AP)—Tanning in human beings is considered to come from ultra-violet rays, but other light rays can cause similar results in plants.

Tanning in leaves is defined by Charles Sheard and A. Frances Johnson of the Mayo Foundation in a report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science as a darkening process.

It can come, they say, either from ultra-violet rays, or from infra-red, that is, heat radiations.

U. S. NAVY SEEKING RELAYS BY COMPASS

Washington. —(AP)—The naval observatory is looking for a way to relay readings from a magnetic compass.

All navy ships of any size have both gyro and magnetic compasses. The gyro compass always accurately locates the north pole and practical "repeaters" have been developed to transmit readings.

Once the magnetic compass is installed it cannot be moved without readjustment. Metals affect its readings.

ACCIDENTS IN HOMES SECOND ONLY TO AUTOS

New Haven, Conn. —(AP)—The home rates second to automobiles in number of accidents produced annually in statistics by the Travelers Insurance Company.

Just plain falling down at home is responsible for about one half of all the domestic accidents. With autos, collisions cause more injuries than any other one class of accidents.

duced by time in the angle of the ecliptic, the approximate age of the structure could be gauged.

Throughout the regions visited by Dr. Mueller and Prof. Posnansky, there are vestiges of prehistoric observatories known as "Intiwatana," meaning: "Places where the sun is kept prisoner."

The solar temple at Cuzco, Dr. Mueller concludes, must have been the most splendid edifice of its period. Here stood, facing east, a huge golden image of the sun which caught the rays of the rising orb at the summer solstice, June 23.

Old chronicles tell of one Leguizano, a Spanish soldier who captured the golden image and gambled it away the next night. A local proverb still speaks of a spendthrift as one who "gambles away the sun before it is risen."

PSYCHOLOGISTS FOOLED BY EMOTION DETECTORS

Middletown, Conn. —(AP)—Electrical tension in the human body as a measure of emotion has little verification, says a report by Dr. Carney Landis of Wesleyan university to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Many psychologists have been deluded into believing too much, he says.

DREISER'S BOOK IS POPULAR IN APPLETON

Boston may disapprove of Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy" but the book is still exceedingly popular in Appleton, public library circulation reports show.

In a recent decision of the Massachusetts supreme court, Dreiser's book and "Lady Chatterley's Lover" by the late D. H. Lawrence, were held to be "obscene, indecent, and impure, and manifestly tending to corrupt the morals of youth."

The Lawrence book is not in the Appleton library.

The Lenten season was originally only 40 hours—from Good Friday until Easter Day morning.

Chapter 22
GRAINGER'S EYES SNOODER
ADMIRAL Caroline's refusal to sentimentalize the connection with Parados' death, and her eyes were unsympathetic as she looked at me.

"All right," I conceded, grinning. "You win on points. But can't we talk of something else?"

Caroline was instantly her adorable self again.

"That was nice of you," she said, twinkling at me. "But—I'm afraid we can't. You see, it's quite vital to me."

"Well, all right. Let's review the affair. If you had done it, you wouldn't have used a gun equipped with a silencer. Where would you get a silencer, I'd like to know?"

"That's true," Caroline admitted, "but it hasn't been proved that a silencer was used."

"A silencer must have been used," I said. "If Celia heard that telephone ring some of us would have heard the shot, if it had not been silenced. That's settled. But there's so much else that does not touch you at all to be considered. That advertisement in the Marseilles newspapers, for instance. We know that Lum We stole and broke and returned the phoenix, but we don't know who advertised to the world in general, and to the Balaire and Cordon Box in particular, that the phoenix was on San Lucas, unless it was you," I added gravely.

"It wasn't," Caroline assured me solemnly.

"The assumption is," I continued, "that Parados was Jules Lacote, who sent his accomplices to Devil's Island for a million francs."

"Of course," and Caroline gave me one of those teasing smiles.

"But Parados may have been Lacote and he may not. If he wasn't, your lovely theory goes bang."

"I admit that, too. A belief that Parados was Lacote is as far as I am prepared to go. Lum We stole the phoenix. Mrs. Parados hated her husband. Annersley must have dropped that yellow pearl inside the safe and smashed open that drawer to get those Fleetwood documents. Grainger was slashed across the cheek by Parados. Johns hated Parados because he threatened to destroy the fort, Celia detested him because of his treatment of Annersley—but none of these motives proves that any one of these persons killed Parados. I haven't said anything about the alibi."

"Don't forget to include my name," Caroline reminded me. "Celia and I are the only two who haven't an alibi."

"It's a gorgeous paradox from beginning to end," I continued. "And then there's the biggest paradox of them all."

Caroline nodded slowly. "Yes, that price ticket in his hand. Do you suppose a woman—?" She stopped, shivering.

I had thought of that, too. "It does look more like a woman's touch than a man's. But 35 cents! It doesn't make sense."

"Sense!" Caroline echoed. "None of it makes sense." She put her hands to her head.

"It's pretty awful," I said gently. "but won't you try to forget it for a little while?"

"I'm afraid," she whispered. "There's more coming. I can feel it—hanging. You—you don't think I killed him, do you?"

"Great guns, no!" I exploded, seizing both of her hands. "Caroline, you mustn't talk like that! You're nothing to be afraid of. You hear me?"

She began to weep then, and I drew her against my shoulder and held her head. Something inside of me was going around at a terrific rate.

Caroline drew away from me, and shook the tears out of her eyes.

"Forgive me for making such an idiot of myself," she begged. "I'm all right now. Who are in those launches, do you suppose?" She pointed to two boats rounding the promontory.

"The police and the reporters, probably," I said. "Annersley is expecting them. There'll be more questioning. Do you feel you can stand it?" I asked anxiously.

"Of course I can," she looked at me steadily and earnestly.

"Let's drop in and see Professor Johns," I suggested audaciously. "That old fort should be full of interest."

"Professor Johns—" She said, frowning. "Don't you think he's eccentric?"

"Well, he ought to be," I laughed. "He's lived alone long enough."

"Yes, that must be it. I'm not sure I like queer people."

"What about antique dealers?" I inquired in an injured tone.

"That tender derisiveness was in her eyes as she looked up. My heart jumped.

"They can't help themselves, I suppose, and—they can be improved. Oh, come on!"

Professor Johns hailed us from the tower of the fort. To our surprise he came out with a seagull in his arms and blood on his lean white hands.

"Good morning, my friends," he greeted us. "This is another of his whims. He hurt one of his wings and I have been doctoring him."

"The poor thing!" Caroline exclaimed.

"You have an interesting place here, professor," I said.

"The tower has been restored," Caroline exclaimed animatedly. "It's a dream of a place. Isn't that my beautiful?"

"Mr. Parados had to make the place habitable for me," Professor Johns explained. "But he wouldn't touch the walls. Every year the warm rains crumble away a little more of the original adobe."

He led us into the compound of the fort, which was about 150 feet square. The walls, some two feet thick, had been ten feet high at one time. Great gaps were broken in them. In the center of the compound was a goldfish pond, around it a vegetable garden still occupied by odds and ends of the fall planting.

As we came around to the front of the fort a stentorian hail from the other side of the cove attracted our attention. Kirk was waving to us.

"You are wanted over here," he roared. "All of you. Get a move on!"

"Dear me," Professor Johns protested. "I thought I had told them everything I know."

The ordeal turned out to be not nearly so unpleasant as we had expected. Douglas Rose, the district attorney, and Dr. Steen, the coroner, were the principal officers of the new arrivals. Each of us was required to give an impression of finger-prints.

Nothing of moment turned up until Grainger, who had been left until the last, was brought in. Ross made no impression on the man's austere gravity until he suddenly said: "Why did you drop that rose into the wastepaper basket?"

"I didn't."

Grainger's lips tightened.

"Don't lie. Why did you do it?"

"I didn't!"

Grainger's eyes smoldered angrily as he stubbornly repeated his denial.

"No!" Ross inquired. "Why did your master slash you across the cheek?"

Grainger's hands knotted convulsively. "There's a red-headed murderer on this island," he cried harshly, ignoring the question. "I'll say that much. If you don't find out who did it, I'll be doing it for you. And that's all I'm telling you!" (Copyright, 1930, William Morrow and Company)

Does the tight-lipped Grainger hold the key to this puzzle? See tomorrow's chapter.

EXPERT SAYS COURTESY NEEDED MORE THAN LAW
Washington (AP)—An expert holds courtesy, rather than laws, to be the most necessary requisite in the safe use of highways.

"No regulation works perfectly in congestion," says Dr. H. C. Dickinson, of the bureau of standards, "and common courtesy is the secret of safe motoring."

"The man at the wheel must look out for the other fellow. Safe and careful driving is not limited to speed in miles, but to existing conditions of the road and traffic at the time."

Rome (AP)—A complaint department for tourists has opened here under government auspices. It will examine and try to adjust all claims and complaints of travelers in Italy.

GANGLAND AGAIN APPLIES TORTURE FOR INFORMATION

Prefers This Method to That of Inflicting Sudden Death

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press Chicago—(CPA)—Torture instead of sudden death again is being applied by gangland's kangaroo courts, whose methods of obtaining testimony would do justice to a medieval third degree proceeding. The garrote—improvised from wire—was utilized by the gang torture squad for prying information from the latest of eight victims in the renewed struggle for supremacy of Chicago's underworld. When Thomas Sommarino went his way, it was only after he had been strangled slowly in an effort to wring from him more secrets of the Capone gang. Then with the information obtained, the garrote was drawn tighter and the captive allowed to die.

Police third degree with its famed gold fish room—the swinging hose and the punching bag method—is kindergarten stuff compared with that of these hoodlums.

One of the favorite torture methods in the past has been to apply lighted cigarette butts to the skin of the victim. His agony only inspired more frequent applications until the underworld detectives learned what they wanted to know. Usually a one way ride would end the proceeding.

At other times the torture squads have mutilated their captives when seeking to obtain secrets. On occasion they have gouged out eyes in the most terrible of tortures. It all has come to be part of the law enforcement system, and the detective plan, of the jungle type organization which rules outside the law.

Now Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, advises that the gangs are establishing their own crematories so they may des-trov the victims without trace. It was while looking for this crematory that Roche, Tuesday night, came upon a cache of dynamite used by the gangs in blowing up their opponents' establishments.

Concerning the crematory Roche said:

"My information has come from reliable sources. I have been told that the novelty of the scheme and the chastity safety of disposing of victims completely appealed to the leaders."

"The conviction that it was true was strengthened by the disappearance of two men. One was Ben Bennett, a New York whiskey dealer and the other William Hoge is a St. Paul racketeer.

The police today had a whole bevy of well-known gangsters collected, but there was little prospect that they would get any evidence in which a process might be based.

It was established, however, by enough to satisfy the police, that Capone and Moran are in control of their battles to the death and thus far Capone has come off second best. He has lost some of his best gunmen in the cross fire of killings.

WOMEN HONOR AVIATRIX

Sydney, N. S. W.—(CP)—Amy Johnson with golden hair like Wagner's Brunhilde, was acclaimed today a heroine of the air, at a dinner given by 1,100 women admirers of her flight from England to Australia.

During the dinner the operatic soprano Florence Austral sang Brunhilde's Battle Cry, from the second act of Wagner's opera in honor of the young aviator. A American coucal presented a bouquet to her as a tribute from the United States.

If a mosquito bites you, it is a female. The males are unable to puncture the skin and therefore are not bloodsuckers, but vegetarians.

TEST COLLEGE TO OPEN FOURTH YEAR NEXT SEPTEMBER

Experimental School Appar- ently Is Filling Role Effec- tively

Madison—(P)—While officials refuse to give an estimate of its success as an educational project, the Experimental college at the University of Wisconsin apparently is filling its role effectively.

This is vouched both in an announcement that the college will open its fourth year in September and in favorable action by the faculty on a curriculum revision plan, which endorses the experimental idea of substituting "human situations" for separate subject on which the regular curriculum is based.

Dr. Alexander Melkielehn, Brittingham professor of philosophy and chairman of the college, has consistently refused to estimate results of the experiment, but Dr. Glenn Frank, president, endorses the work with:

"If my son were ready for college, I should want to enroll him in the group of students and teachers who are jointly searching for the maximum reality of liberal education in the Experimental college."

"Speaking personally as well as officially, I think the Experimental College is a good place for a boy to be. Unless he is a congenital slug-gard or dullard, he will emerge from its disciplines with an eager questioning mind, with an appetite for solid literature, and a sharpened capacity for approaching and analyzing situations, which, after all, is equally essential for the man who is to be a banker and the man who is to be an artist."

Dr. Frank explains that the procedures of the Experimental college have been elaborated in the interest of three major objectives.

HERE ARE OBJECTIVES

1. Greater integration of the materials to be studied in the freshman and sophomore years. This is the question of curriculum, and students civilizations—those of fifth century Athens and nineteenth century United States—instead of separate subjects.

And its educational success, as far as the students in this particular venture are concerned, is, in my judgment, clear beyond question,"
Dr. Frank says.

2. Greater informalization of the teaching procedure. Instead of the mechanization of the average college, which has compulsory attendance, the Experimental college is on the basis of free and informal contact between immature and mature minds.

"Certainly, if it is possible to or-

Think Shipwrecked Tribe Left Carvings In Rock

Portland, Ore. (AP)—Prehistoric stone carvings along the Columbia river near Arlington, Ore. show that an ancient race inhabited the country before the Indians.

That is the conclusion drawn from the strange characters by Dr. J. B.
Horner, director of historical research at Oregon State College.

"When the white man came, no native knew the origin or meaning of these mysterious characters," Dr. Horner declares. "Wrecks centuries ago along the Pacific coast left stranded those who later perished ashore or were amalgamated with the natives."

"Possibly there were Phoenicians who may have traversed the Pacific long before it was recorded on the maps of geographers."

"It is possible that the Pacific northwest was populated even before Europe and that in some early period the inhabitants along the Columbia river were living in their stone age."

"This recalls that the Pacific northwest is very old."
The petroglyphs, cut in solid rock, are so old they are covered with a coat of black as hard as the stone in which they are carved.

ganize a great university so that its students can have the benefit of the more personal sort of teacher-student contact that was the glory of some of the smaller colleges of an earlier day, we should not rest content until we have explored every possibility of arriving at such organization. I believe this is possible," comments Dr. Frank.

3. Greater socialization of the student. The college has its students live together in a dormitory in order to have a "living intellectual enterprise," rather than students, who are isolated individuals attending classes.

Evidences of the Experimental college idea of civilization studies rather than subjects are contained in the curriculum revision plan, which awaits only approval by the board of regents before becoming effective next fall.

On course proposed would combine English literature and history, another would study western civilization, while a third would aim at "the attainment of familiarity with the philosophic approach to individual, economic, and political life."

To support the Experimental college idea further, the new curriculum will require students to pass general examinations in their field, rather than ones in specific studies.

Dr. Frank has himself expressed the idea of the curriculum revision as stressing "actual attainment and growth by the student rather than the mere attendance of class and the meeting of routine requirements."

PLAN DECORATIONS FOR VETS' CONVENTION

R. M. Costello, Chicago, is spending several days in this city making arrangements for street and business establishment decorations for the statewide convention of Spanish American War veterans here June 26, 27 and 28. Daily conferences are being held with local business men, and it is expected every store in Appleton will have elaborate decorations.

"Some of the petroglyphs chart battle, some successful hunting parties, and others the visits of other tribes, through it is believed their meaning will some day be revealed as indicating considerable intelligence in those who carved them."
